Pepper to Seek Vote

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Organized labor's hopes for immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act were bowled over like so many tenpins yesterday.

The Senate Labor Committee, it was disclosed, plans to hold hearings on the repeal legislation, and by acting "expeditiously" aims to complete hearings in a month and a half.

After that will come the executive sessions of the committee in working out a bill, and when the measure is finally reported out, the Senate will have the opportunity of debating the various involved questions on the floor.

Thomas Outlines Plans

The committee plans were outlined to the press yesterday by Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) after a closed meeting of the committee.

Thomas explained that the committee had yet to approve the plans formally, which might be done Monday, but that he felt sure it was the sentiment of the committee to hold full hearings on bills to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) a member of the committee, has been asserting for a week he would demand a committee showdown vote on quick elimination of the T-H Act and restoration of the Wagner Act. But Pepper failed to show up to the committee meeting yesterday. Chairman Thomas said that Pepper's proposal stood little if any chance of success.

Chairman Thomas warned that the committee had not agreed on any "timetable," but was seeking to get hearings under way quickly, perhaps by the first week of February. The full committee will conduct the hearings, based on Thomas' own bill, which simply repeals the T-H Act, revives the Wagner Act, and maintains the National Labor Relations Board as a five-man agency.

Will Press for Vote

Senator Pepper maintained yesterday he would still press for the showdown vote on Monday. Another member of the committee, Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) said he would move for committee decision on the labor legislation by March 1.

Meanwhile, a hint that labor legislation will not be rushed also came from Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin yesterday. He told the women's division of the Democratic National Committee that it will not be enough to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. He said:

"The Congress and the people of this country must understand what was wrong with the Taft-Hartley Act, and why it needed to be repealed. . . . If they do not, then at some future date another 'Had Enough?' Congress may repeal the new National Labor Relations Act and enact another Taft-Hartley Act."

Senate Labor Committee hearings will also be held soon on the bill to raise minimum wages from 40 cents an hour to 75 cents. These will be conducted by a subcommittee, according to Thomas.

Air Force Considers Attempting 'Feedlift' In Western States

Fresh snowstorms in the Rocky Mountain States increased the danger to starving livestock as the Air Force took tentative steps yesterday to set up a "feedlift."

Nevada declared a state of emergency in its eastern and southern sections, where it was feared livestock losses might total five million dollars.

With at least half the State's 1,610,000 sheep said to be starving, Utah braced for more snow.

Top officers will decide today what the Air Force can do to help.

An Air Force spokesman said Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, deputy chief of operations for the Air Force, had assured Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) that the service will carry out the plan "to the extent that it is within our means."

McCarran said his idea was to use big bombers to freight the feed into isolated regions. He said he also will ask the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to authorize an emergency disaster loan to pay for the feed.

New snow fell in Idaho and Nevada and the heaviest storm in six years hit western Oregon and Washington. Snow piled up to 10 inches in Portland, snarling traffic.

Resolutions will be introduced both in the House and Senate on Monday to give to the Bureau of Land Management greater powers to help in the emergency.

Livestock Price Slump Held More Than 'Seasonal'

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP).—Meat on the hoof isn't the four-legged gold it used to be.

Prices of both hogs and cattle are far down from the record highs made last year. Livestock experts agreed today that the slump in the past few weeks has been much more than just "seasonal."

Hogs at Chicago hit a top of $31.85 a 100 pounds last August. Yesterday the best price was $21.50.

The same story applies to cattle. Average cost of slaughter steers at Chicago this week was estimated by Agriculture Department experts at $23.75 a 100 pounds. That compared with an all-time high last July of $36.85.

What's behind the price drop?

Mark Bickell, secretary of the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders Association, said: "There are just too darn many of the critters coming to market." He said he thought it would take from 30 to 60 days to "clean up" the present market glut.

Acheson Takes Oath as 50th State Secretary

By Ferdinand Kuhn, jr.
Post Reporter

Dean Acheson was sworn in yesterday as the fiftieth American to hold the office of Secretary of State.

He took the oath from Chief Justice Vinson at a private ceremony in President Truman's office, in the presence of Congressional leaders, official personnel and friends and members of his family.

Then he went straight to the State Department, where he spent part of the afternoon discussing current problems with retiring Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett.

Telegrams went out to embassies and legations in all parts of the world signed "Acheson," a signal to the Foreign Service that a new chief was in command.

The changeover was probably the smoothest since Robert Lansing, the veteran counselor of the department, succeeded William Jennings Bryan as Secretary in 1915. No new Secretary since then has been as well acquainted as Acheson with the vast amount of detail involved or with the leading figures and the administrative mechanism of the department.

The most important problem facing him yesterday was the North Atlantic defense treaty, which President Truman said he hoped to send to the Senate "soon." Lovett has been in charge of the negotiations; Acheson personally is expected to handle them from now on.

Over the weekend the new Secretary also expects to consider what administrative and personnel changes, if any, he will make at the start of his term.

He is known to favor putting an Assistant Secretary in charge of each of the so-called geographic areas into which the State Department carves up the world. Altogether his plan provides for eight Assistant Secretaries and two deputy Undersecretaries, one of them in charge of policy and one of administration.

Some of these changes can be carried out without new legislation from Congress and without awaiting the proposals of the Hoover Commission, on which Acheson served as vice chairman.

His prospective Undersecretary, James E. Webb, was present at yesterdays swearing-in ceremony, but Webb was not able to take office because the Senate had not yet confirmed him. The Foreign Relations Committee is expected to approve him at its next scheduled meeting Tuesday.

President Truman was the first to congratulate the new Secretary yesterday. The President watched the ceremony from his desk; then, when the oath had been adminstered, he stepped quickly around the desk to shake Acheson's hand.

Truman's Plan On His Mind For Months

Aid to Impoverished Countries Discussed With FAO Chief Dodd

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

President Truman's "bold new program" for making American scientific and industrial abilities available to underdeveloped countries of the world, has been a top subject with him for months.

It was revealed yesterday that he has discussed such a program at length with experts in world economics. Not only does the President believe that improvement of those areas would mean a long period of prosperity for the United States, as he told the Missouri congressional delegation at breakfast yesterday, but he thinks the promise of aid will divert any inclination of those areas towards communism.

Mr. Truman is believed to have studied the matter thoroughly with Norris E. Dodd, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, just before Mr. Dodd left for a trip around the world last Saturday. In fact, recent discussions have been only a part of a series of talks on the same subject with Dodd since the latter became head of FAO early last summer.

Mr. Truman's reference to this program in the Inaugural address Thursday was only a more detailed statement of aims he expressed on

Soviet Editor Makes Reply To Truman

Top Russians Hear Communism Called 'Honor of Our Age' At Lenin Memorial

Moscow, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The chief speaker at a memorial meeting in honor of Nikolai Lenin said tonight, in the presence of Premier Josef Stalin and other high leaders, that communism is "the brain, honor and conscience of our age, a new era, the era of crushing capitalism."

(By implication, the speech was an answer to the inaugural speech yesterday of President Truman in which he called communism a false philosophy and contrasted it to democracy.)

"The twentieth century is not Wall Street's century but the century of the world-wide full triumph of Leninist ideology, the ideology of Lenin and Stalin," said Peter Pospelov, editor of the Communist newspaper organ Pravda.

Refers to Chinese War

The most important figures in the Soviet Union were with Stalin at the meeting, commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Lenin. Included were Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov, members of the Communist Party political bureau, the cabinet, Parliament, the fighting services and the Communist youth movement. President Mikhail Shvernik presided.

After weeks in which Russian newspapers have been silent on the triumph of the Chinese Communists, Pospelov said:

"Tens, thousands, millions of Chinese are growing strong and struggling against imperialism. And despite the fact that American capitalists are arming their opponents, the army of national liberation has freed considerable territory and is continuing to free more.

"These victories, as well as events in Indo-China and Indonesia go forth to confirm Stalin's words that the age of colonial exploitation is over."

Pospelov quoted Lenin as saying that American imperialism was the most heartless of all imperialisms and he added that it had become worse since the end of the war.

Says "Front Is Growing"

"Imperialists are trying to use nationalists like Tito to break the anti-imperialist front, but the anti-imperialist front is growing stronger," Pospelov said.

Pospelov indicated that, "despite the warlike machinations of Anglo-American imperialism," Russia does not think a third world war inevitable.

Pospelov warned "troubadours of the American century" that "the overwhelming majority of the world's people are against them."

"Hundreds of millions of people do not scare easily," he said.

China Names Mission To Seek Peace Terms As Chiang Quits Office

Leadership Changes

LI TSUNG-JEN
"Peacemaker"

Generalissimo Says He Has 'Retired'; Vice President Asks Cabinet to Stay On

(From Press Dispatches)

Nanking, China, Jan. 21.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek "retired" as President of China today and the government reportedly complied with Communist demands to name a peace delegation.

Turning over his job at least temporarily to Vice President Li Tsung-jen, Chiang flew to Hangchow, 150 miles southeast of Nanking, on the way to his home town of Fenghua to "sweep the graves of his honorable ancestors."

Chiang left behind a farewell statement so ambiguous that officials held it up for nearly 10 hours until they could phone him for clarification.

Wording of Farewell

As finally released, the official translation in English said:

"With the hope that hostilities may be brought to an end and the people's suffering relieved, I have decided to retire.

"As from January 21, Vice President Li Tsung-jen will exercise the duties and powers of president in accordance with Article 49 of the constitution, which provides 'in the event the president for any reason is unable to perform his functions, his duties and powers shall be exercised by the vice president.'"

Skeptics commented Chiang had "decided" to retire; that he had not said he actually had retired.

Li was in constant consultation with his top advisers after the Communist radio suggested that delegates be sent to meet the Reds.

(This broadcast was not heard in San Francisco. Whether it was made after the announcement of Chiang's retirement was not immediately known. If it was, it seemed clear Li was acceptable to the Communists.)

The cabinet met at once and resigned in order to give acting President Li complete freedom of action. Li asked the cabinet, all army commanders and all provincial and city authorities to remain.

The government then named Chang Chih-chun, a minister without portfolio who has often conferred with Communist leaders; Gen. Chang Chun, Shao Li-tze and Wu Ching-shen as a special mission to proceed to Communist-held territory to negotiate with Mao Tze-tung and other Red leaders. They were instructed to seek an immediate cease-fire, followed by negotiations for permanent peace.

Chang Chih-chun, head of the peace mission, planned to leave by plane Sunday for the Red capital at Yenan.

Because of the wording of Chiang's farewell, his status remains uncertain. Twice recently Chiang announced he was going to resign. Both times he changed his mind.

Door Left Open to Return

Many observers believe that if the peace attempt with the Communists fails he will come back.

Since Chiang was elected by the National Assembly his resignation would have to be accepted by the Assembly, which is not in session.

Chiang arrived at Hangchow, on the coast, at 5:50 p. m., and was welcomed by Provincial Governor Chen Yi.

Chiang said he would remain at Hangchow a few days before he proceeded by automobile to Fenghua, 50 miles away.

Later in the day Li accepted the resignation of T. V. Soong, Chiang Kai-shek's millionaire brother-in-law, as Governor of Kwangtung Province. He appointed the Cantonese war hero Gen. Hsueh Yueh as governor.

Soong was reported leaving immediately by air for Canton, intending to proceed to the United States.

Madame Chiang, Soong's sister, is in New York, where she declined comment.

The civil war battlefields remained virtually silent. In central China the Communists were slowly moving south toward Nanking.

Efforts to make a separate surrender of Peiping to the Communists in the north were still in progress.

Chinese Not 'Through,' Connally Believes

The State Department had no official comment yesterday on Chiang's "retirement," but it is known to feel that he must take most of the blame for recent gains of the Chinese Communist armies.

GOP Senators See 1950 Win Or Long Wait

Chances Held Slight In 1952 as Early Campaign Is Mapped

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Senate Republicans yesterday kicked off the 1950 campaign to an unprecedented day-after-Inaugural start after a survey of party prospects developed this solid fact:

Republicans must recapture control of the Senate next year, or wait until 1954—six years—for another real chance.

This mathematical outlook plus a scheduled meeting of the Republican National Committee in Omaha, Nebr., next week, stirred the Senate Republican Policy Committee into unexpected action.

Caution on Conference Plan

In the earliest campaign takeoff yet, the Senate GOP leaders gave this informal "advice" to four Senate Republicans leaving this weekend for the Omaha meeting.

1. "Go slow" on GOP National Chairman Hugh D. Scott's proposals for a Republican conference or "convention" this summer or fall to frame a national party program.

2. Make it clear that the program on which GOP legislators will run for reelection in 1950 will be largely the record of congressional Republicans, this year and next, in the Senate as well as the House.

3. Don't rule out the possibility of a between-elections party meeting but make it contingent on further study and close consultation with the Senate and House Republican campaign committees.

4. Work in any event for the closest possible cooperation between the Republican National Committee and GOP legislators because "this is one we have to win."

Brewster to Head Drive

Meanwhile, it was learned that Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) has been picked to head the 1950 Republican drive to recapture the Senate.

Brewster was designated yesterday to represent the Republican senatorial campaign committee at the Omaha meeting next Tuesday and Wednesday, along with Senator Homer E. Capehart (R., Ind.), retiring as vice chairman of the campaign group.

The two other Republican Senators who asked and received the "views" of the Senate GOP Policy Committee were Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), and Senator Hugh Butler (Nebr.). Wherry and Butler are going to Omaha as "host Sen-

Permanent Bloc Opposed In Asia Talks

India and Australia Believe Only Topic Should Be Indonesia

New Delhi, India, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The 19 nations at the Asian Conference failed again today in a secret meeting to agree on formation of a permanent Far East bloc along the lines of the western European treaty.

Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan of Pakistan led the Moslem countries in a fight for a permanent organization to act on any question, such as Palestine.

Opposing him were India's Prime Minister, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru; Australian Delegate J. W. Burton and others who believed the conference should confine itself to the issue for which it was called—Dutch conquest of the Republic of Indonesia.

Informed sources said Nehru, who proposed such a permanent organization yesterday, is convinced that the conference should stick to the Indonesian problem at present.

These sources said the conference as a whole made no specific recommendation on whether its resolution to the United Nations Security Council should ask for economic sanctions against the Dutch.

Instead, the problem will be threshed out in a drafting committee composed of Ceylon, Australia, Pakistan and India, the sources said.

Russia to Send 4 Men to Wheat Conference Here

Moscow, Jan. 21 (AP).—The United States Embassy said today the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs has applied for visas for members of a Russian delegation to the international wheat conference opening in Washington next week.

The Russians did not attend the last international wheat conference. This time they are sending four representatives.

The embassy said the delegation will be headed by Sergei A. Borisov and that all visas have been granted.

The wheat conference is being held under the auspices of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

Foreign economic observers here expressed the view Soviet attendance and participation indicate heightened interest by the USSR in the international wheat market, since the Soviet Union is now a large grain exporter.

Adventist Urges Country Life For Children to Avoid City Vice

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

"Keep your children away from the cesspools of vice that our cities are becoming," a Seventh-day Adventist theological professor warned last night.

Speaking to about 1000 delegates at a denominational Rural Living Commission at the Sligo Adventist Church, Takoma Park, the Rev. D. E. Rebok said ministers should urge country living "because of the moral warfare involved in big cities.

"Instead of living where the sights and sounds frequently suggest thoughts of evil, where turmoil and confusion bring weariness and disquietude, go where you can look upon the works of God," he urged.

Mr. Rebok proposed that the denomination establish medical and educational institutions in rural areas "where our youth are not exposed to the temptations of the city in their formative years."

The professor said that country estates near large cities are available for such institutions at from "6 to 10 per cent" of what they cost.

Meetings will continue today and Sunday. Delegates from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia are attending the meetings.

Canadian Flying Officer George Mattusch pictured with his wife, the former Anita Cajigas, was sighted alive on frozen Hudson Bay after mercy plane made forced landing

From Press Dispatches

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Jan. 21.—The laconic radio message "all okay" came tonight from 11 men, including the husband of a Washington, D. C., socialite, sighted on frozen Hudson Bay after their mercy plane made a forced landing this morning.

The words heartened RCAF personnel striving to reach the occupants of the stricken aircraft before a heavy snowstorm, forecast for Saturday, hits the barren, windswept icefield, 70 miles southeast of Churchill.

(The husband is Flying Officer Clarence George Mattusch, 27, of the Royal Canadian Air Force. He married Miss Anita Cajigas in Washington last February in a brilliant ceremony at which top society led the guest list.)

Britain, France to Recognize Israel Soon, London Reports

From Press Dispatches

London, Jan. 21.—Informed sources said tonight Britain and France are ready to recognize the Jewish state of Israel and the United States to recognize Arab Trans-Jordan.

On the part of Britain, the move, intended to ease Near East tension over the Palestine situation, involves a major revision of policy. It would be a minor shift by the United States.

United States Government officials in Washington said the United States is likely to recognize Trans-Jordan next week and at the same time give full (de jure) recognition to Israel. They said, however, the United States is acting independently. They said there was no British-American bargaining over whether Washington would recognize the British-supported Trans-Jordan in return for British recognition of Israel.

Informed sources said Britain may grant Israel de facto recognition Monday. This would recognize the existence of the state of Israel, without giving full recognition to the government in power.

Wednesday the House of Commons is scheduled to debate Foreign Secretary Bevin's Palestine policy.

Diplomatic sources said the United States might recognize

Witness Describes Grilling of Cardinal

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 21 (AP).—The American-sponsored newspaper Wiener Kurier published today what it said was an eyewitness account of the questioning by Hungarian police of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. It said the primate "confessed" only after collapsing from five days of almost uninterrupted questioning.

The newspaper said its informant was a Hungarian police official who said he was present. He said the Cardinal offered heroic resistance for four days, during which he was confronted by his assistants, who had been beaten by police. He said the Cardinal's secretary, Dr. Ondras Zakar, was brought in showing effects of torture and that Zakar told Mindszenty "I confess now to whatever they want."

[The United Press said it learned the Cardinal was forced to stand for 82 hours and watch his associates tortured.]

On the fifth day, his resistance broken by "refreshment" pills and the grilling, the Cardinal signed the statement published in a recent "yellow book." The pills, said the informant, caused an almost paralyzing headache and a torturing thirst and resulted finally in almost complete numbness.

2 New Latin Regimes Get Recognition

By The Associated Press

The United States granted full diplomatic recognition yesterday to new governments in Venezuela and El Salvador which seized power last year by forcible means it has condemned.

The action was taken after a wait of nearly two months in the case of Venezuela, and the State Department stressed the step did not imply any judgment on the domestic policies of either Latin-American country.

In the interval nearly a score of other countries had extended recognition.

As a major producer and exporter of oil, Venezuela is important to the success of American aid to Europe and the State Department was under some pressure to act on this score.

The military junta which ousted President Romulo Gallegos in Venezuela last November 24, gave assurances it would strictly fulfill its international obligations, and the Provisional President, Lieut. Col. Carlos Dalgado Chalbaud, has promised to hold free elections.

Presumably similar assurances were received from El Salvador, though details were not immediately announced. The State Department said the "same principles" apply to the recognition of the new regime in the tiny central American state which took control in mid-December.

The military overturns in the two countries had prompted a strongly worded United States denunciation just a month ago of the use of force as "an instrument of political change." Other American republics were asked to suggest means whereby revolutions can be discouraged and the problem is still under consideration.

Greek Rebels Take Third Large Town

Athens, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Guerilla troops captured the town of Karpenision, 125 miles northwest of Athens, today after a three-day offensive.

A government communique said 4000 to 5000 guerilla troops took part in the attack, and that the entire government garrison of 550 men was listed as missing.

The announcement said Karpenision was jammed with some 14,000 Nationalist refugees whose fate is "insecure."

Karpenision is the third large town to be captured by the guerillas in little more than a month.

15 Italians Hurt as Reds Kidnap Mayor

Bari, Italy, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Fifteen persons were injured today when a mob of 500, mostly women, broke into city hall and kidnaped Mayor Vitantonio diCagno for two hours during a Communist-led unemployment demonstration.

In Milan, 50,000 workers demonstrated during a three-hour general industrial strike called by the Communist-dominated Chamber of Labor to protest a government decision to close two factories because of inefficient management. There were no incidents.

Communist and non-Communist workers agreed tonight to strike the Trieste shipyards for 24 hours beginning Saturday, after the company rejected their demand for higher wages.

Paris, Jan. 21 (NYHT).—France and Italy are to join in a customs union within twelve months and to have their industries working on a mutual production program within six years, it was agreed today by the joint Franco-Italian Customs Union Commission.

The commission also concluded it was advisable to have a common currency ceiling production for agriculture., joint wage and social security standards, elimination of passports, joint import tariffs and to do away with the Franco-Italian duty wall.

Scandinavian Nations to Meet On Joint Plans for Defense

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The Scandinavian Prime Ministers will meet here Saturday to decide whether to join the North Atlantic Security Pact or make an exclusively Scandinavian treaty, or divide up, with some joining the pact.

The Swedish, Norwegian and Danish Prime Ministers, accompanied by their Foreign Ministers and congressional delegations, will participate.

They are split on the issue. Norway wants to join. Sweden refuses. Denmark appears to favor joining, but wants to keep harmony.

Sweden, which can supply its own arms, favors a defense treaty among only the three Scandinavian countries. This is itself a retreat from the position of steadfast neutrality which kept Sweden out of two World Wars.

Revolt of North Korea Army Against Red Regime Reported

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 21 (AP).—The information minister of South Korea said today he had reliable reports that an army revolt against the North Korean Communist regime had been in progress for two days at the border town of Haeju.

The minister, Kim Don Sung, said fires were observed and gunfire broke out the night of January 19 and were continuing. Haeju is near the west coast just north of the thirty-eighth parallel, which separates the American-sponsored South Republic from the Soviet-sponsored northern government.

Kim said his information was that the Communist army at Baeju was in three factions, one in revolt, one loyal and one awaiting the outcome. He had no other details.

Americans, Czechs Exchange Gunfire

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 21 (AP).—United States troops and Czechoslovak border guards were disclosed today to have exchanged fire in a frontier incident.

United States Army headquarters announced no Americans were wounded. American officials said they did not know whether any Czechs were hit. They accused the Czechs of firing first.

The clash occurred last night near Schirnding, directly opposite the Czechoslovak border town of Eger, 75 miles northwest of Nuernberg. The American zone of occupation in Germany borders Czechoslovakia, a Communist state since last February.

Estimates of the number of shots fired ranged from 20 to 200 each side brought up an armored vehicle, but these were not used.

The incident began when a German truck, possibly loaded with smuggled ball bearings and machine tools, tried to crash the border into Czechoslovakia.

First German border police and the occupants of the truck engaged in a gunfight. Two in the truck were wounded. Thirty minutes later American constabulary troops reached the scene and "were fired upon from the Czech side of the border," the Army said. The Americans fired back.

A Prague dispatch said the Czechoslovak foreign ministry and the United States Embassy have sent investigators.

One source in the Czechoslovak foreign ministry said that so far the incident was not regarded in Prague as being of an alarming nature. The new American Ambassador, Joseph E. Jacobs, and his top aides were in consultation.

The truck still was at the same place tonight, guarded by a detail of Czechs. The German occupants are in Czechoslovak custody. A small number of American constabulary troopers also remained at the border. They have the keys for the truck.

Two months ago the Army announced the arrest of 20 persons in the smashing of a spy ring operating for the Czechs in the American and British zones of Germany.

Two weeks ago the Army disclosed that two American soldiers, Recruits Clarence R. Hill of Jackson, Miss., and George R. Jones of Owensboro, Ky., were in the custody of Czechoslovak police. They still have not been released.

Briton's View

Need Is Seen For Tripling Of Airlift

Berlin, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—A high British official said today that the Anglo-American airlift would have to be nearly tripled to supply the economic needs of blockaded Berlin.

Maj. Gen. E. O. Herbert, retiring British commandant in Berlin, said "the airlift will not solve the economic problem of Berlin until it delivers 12,000 tons per day."

So far this month, Herbert said, deliveries have averaged only 4300 tons a day.

This has kept west Berliners from starving or freezing, but could not keep factories running. Thousands are unemployed.

A high American military government official said tonight Germany's western boundaries will be fixed without consultation with Russia.

This source said the Western allies already have agreed on "minor changes" in the boundaries and that they will be announced shortly. He gave no details.

2 Ardent Reds Rewarded in Polish Purge

Warsaw, Jan. 21 (AP).—Two ardent Communists replaced today two Polish cabinet ministers repeatedly accused of straying from the international line of the Cominform.

The government announced Wladyslaw Gomulka, first vice premier, and Edward B. Osubka-Morawski, minister of public administration since 1947, had resigned.

By appointment of President Boleslaw Bierut:

Brig. Gen. Aleksander Zawadzki, 49, becomes vice premier.

Wladyslaw Wolski, 47, takes over the public administration ministry.

The shakeup is part of a purge, now going on.

Apology Will Go To Kentucky Club On Parade Ouster

An apology will go to the Mose Green Club of Louisville, Ky., for its ejection from the presidential inaugural parade Thursday.

Melvin D. Hildreth, general chairman of the Inaugural Committee, told Senator Chapman (D., Ky.) yesterday he was "grieved" over the incident.

The Democratic Club fell in behind the Ashland (Ky.) High School band in the Kentucky section of the parade on the Capitol grounds. As the procession swung into Pennsylvania Avenue police forced the unit out of line, C. W. A. McCann, club president, said.

Chapman said President Truman, Vice President Barkley and he, himself, were members of the organization, which was formed in 1892.

James A. Diskin, general chairman of the Kentucky committee for the inaugural arrangements, said the club had not consulted him regarding its plans. The parade marshal's office order did not include the club in the list of Kentucky units.

Contestants Named for Post Quizdown Today

Contestants from Monroe include Nancy Salisbury, Patsy Jarman, Joe Poe, Frankie Gillespie, Eric Adelberger and Jim Mayer. Alternatives are Tom Haskell, Michael Bander, Dwight Scott, Rex Adelberger, Mollie Hinshaw and Shirley Forbes.

From Peyton-Randolph, contestants will be Judith Mackenzie, Nancy Lee Riggle, Joan Crowhurst, Nancy Smith, Henry Mayo and David Biren. Alternatives are Anthony Conrad, Violet Ost, Jane Wray Epley, James Posey, Charles John and Diane Tomlinson.

Cough Elevated To Dramatic Art On Radio Program

New York, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The lowly cough today was suddenly elevated to the status of dramatic art.

WMCA radio officials had planned to have their announcer cough to open a tuberculosis program tonight.

The American Federation of Radio Artists (AFL) pointed out, however, that a staff announcer could only read the written text before him, according to union rules. Since the cough could not be written it called for an actor, and an actor called for a wage scale of from $6 to $12.50. The union added that the ruling also applied to sneezes. The script is being rewritten.

Tito Charges Radio Moscow Apes Goebbels

By Gaston Coblentz

Belgrade, Jan. 21 (NYHT).—Premier Marshal Tito today attacked the "enemy" broadcasts of Radio Moscow and other Communist capitals that are denouncing the Yugoslav government.

The "huge" propaganda apparatus" of the Cominform is using "the well-known Goebbels method," Marshal Tito told the second Serbian Communist Party Congress.

However, Marshal Tito said he still wants to reunite his party with the international Communist movement. He said that the present rift between the Cominform and Yugoslavia was "damaging" but not "tragic." He said the Cominform's present tactics "must be abandoned and that Communist nations must learn to respect the principle of equality between small and great countries."

He charged that the Communist bloc radios were employing "criminal types" who betrayed Yugoslavia to "pour poison upon us." He said the Communist bloc broadcasts were "counter-revolutionary."

U. S. Worker Fails In Examination, Hangs Self in Home

A Government worker who had recently been notified by the Civil Service Commission that he had failed in an examination for promotion hanged himself yesterday in his home at 645 Irving st. nw.

The body of Robert L. Lewis, 41, a Veterans Bureau messenger, was found at about 10:45 a. m. by Milton Hill, a roomer at the address, hanging by the neck from a beam in the basement. Lewis had hanged himself with a length of wire.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, who issued a certificate of suicide, said Lewis left a note to "my dear wife" which said "I'll see you later."

The wife, Helen, said her husband had been worrying about failing the examination. She said he also worked extra as a butler and had worked Thursday night for Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth as a butler at a dinner party at her home, 2009 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Papers Refuses Rental Ads Against Children

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP).—A newspaper today announced it was refusing classified rental advertisements that specified "no children."

The San Diego Daily Journal, which published the announcement on its front page, said it believed it was the first newspaper on the West Coast to take this step in attacking rental restrictions which discriminate against families most in need of housing."

Georgia House Kills Move to Unmask Klan

Atlanta, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The Georgia House of Representatives today dealt a conclusive death blow to a measure to unmask the Ku Klux Klan.

The lower chamber voted 79 to 31 not to reconsider the unmasking measure, which was introduced by Representative John Greer of Lanier County.

The House, 89 to 65, had "postponed indefinitely" consideration of the measure yesterday.

FIRST MEAL IN FREEDOM'S CAPITAL—Adolf Stern (center), 32, one of Europe's displaced persons who arrived in Washington yesterday, is served a meal by his brother and sister-in-law, Solomon Stern and Mrs. Stern, in their home, 4010 3d st. nw. Stern's mother, father and three sisters were gassed to death by the Nazis at Auschwitz concentration camp

Years of Tragedy, Waiting, End Here for 3 European DPs

Three of Europe's displaced persons arrived in Freedom's capital yesterday after years of persecution and of hopeful waiting.

They are:

Adolf Stern, 32, who joined the only surviving member of his family, his brother Solomon, at 4010 3d st. nw. His mother, father and three sisters were gassed to death in the Nazi concentration camp at Auschwitz.

Bronius Kasakaitis, 42, and his 34-year-old doctor wife, Birute, who have become part of the household of Dr. Raphael N. Manganaro, 1410 Massachusetts ave. nw.

All three arrived in New York City Thursday aboard the SS Marine Flasher, part of a boatload of 457 DPs from the American zone of Germany.

Case History of Tragedy

The last seven years of the life of Adolf Stern are a case history of tragedy almost beyond the comprehension of those who have not suffered similarly.

A native of Slatinsky-Dolly, Czechoslovakia, he was impressed into forced labor by the Hungarians in 1941, made to mine coal, dig ditches and lay army mines.

A yellow armband constantly reminded an unfriendly world that he was a Jew.

Toward the end of 1943, Stern was driven with his family to Germany in an inclosed horse-drawn wagon, without food, water or sanitary facilities. For four days, 100 Jews, including the six Sterns, were not once released from this wagon, he said yesterday.

Once in Germany they discovered their destination—Auschwitz concentration camp. The Jews were formed into two lines. One line, of women, children and the aged, was immediately put to death in the gas chamber. In that line were all the Sterns except Adolf.

Liberated by U. S. Army

He remained in the camp until April 31, 1945, when the liberating United States Army put an end to his immediate suffering.

Thursday, after three years of waiting, and five days of seasickness, Adolf Stern arrived in New York City, and America the "wonderland."

The first six letters of English he has learned are DPC and IRO, for it is the Displaced Persons Commission and the International Refugee Organization that are giving him his American opportunity.

He will help his brother manage the Wheel restaurant and bar at 3817 Bladensburg rd., just over the District line, after he is padded by the food of his sister-in-law, Loretta.

In New York Thursday, he put away the biggest steak Jack Dempsey had to offer, while watching the Inauguration on television. "It was almost too much to stand at one time," he told his brother quietly.

Dr. Manganaro reported yesterday that he was faced with a dilemma as far as the DPs he had sponsored were concerned.

Sought Care for Parents

Through the Catholic Charities in New York, the doctor had contracted to provide a home for a couple that would care for his elderly parents.

When the Kasakaitis family arrived in Union Station Thursday, he learned in quick succession that they were from Lithuania, that Kasakaitis described himself as a gardener, but that his wife was a doctor.

Dr. Manganaro feels sure that Dr. Kasakaitis would not be satisfied to enter domestic service.

But the Lithuanian family is comfortably situated in the Manganaro home until Ugo Carusi, chairman of the United States Displaced Persons Commission, arrives in Washington to solve the dilemma.

Meanwhile, in Baltimore yesterday, 84 more DPs were arriving on Maryland farms, their new homes. All from the Ukrainian area of Poland, they are the second group to arrive this week; 44 others reached the Free State Tuesday.

Coast Guardsman Lost Life Trying To Save Comrade

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—The chief engineer of the Coast Guard Cutter Eastwind said today one of his men vainly gave his life trying to rescue another seaman trapped below the main deck of the flame-swept ship.

The story was related by Lieut. Comdr. Charles Leising of Belmont, Mass., to reporters who boarded the vessel, now moored off Gravesend. It was towed there after its collision with the tanker Gulfstream off the New Jersey Coast Wednesday. Eleven Coast Guardsmen died in the accident and 20 were injured.

The hero of the unsuccessful rescue was Robert Connors, engineman third class of West Haven, Conn. He tried to save J. V. Kerr, a fireman.

South Dakota Ratifies 2-Term Amendment

Pierre, S. Dak., Jan. 21 (U.P.).—South Dakota today became the twenty-second State to ratify an amendment to the United States Constitution limiting Presidents to two terms.

The State Senate approved the amendment today after the House passed it.

300 Officers In Czech Plot

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Usually well-informed sources reported tonight that a number of army officers including generals and others of high rank were held in the Pankran Prison here. Some reports put the number as between 200 and 300.

There was no confirmation from official sources. Private informants said the arrests were the result of the discovery of a plot to seize control of the government in Bohemia.

(Bohemia includes Prague, the capital.)

It was asserted that close to 2000 persons had been rounded up, including the officers, since mid-December.

Official sources said a communique probably would be issued tomorrow.

Lowest Death Rate Ever

London, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The British death rate in 1948 was the lowest ever recorded. The population increased by some 3,500,000.

Soviet Action to Admit Writer To Moscow Called 'Peace' Bid

Soviet action to admit a New York Times correspondent to Moscow may be another indication of what some quarters consider a Soviet "peace offensive," or a new propaganda offensive to convince the world it can get along with Stalin.

The Times has had no correspondent in Moscow for nearly two years. In the spring of 1947 Correspondent Drew Middleton came to the United States on leave and did not get a return visa. Now a Moscow dispatch reports, a visa has been granted Times man, Harrison E. Salisbury, who worked at Moscow in 1944 for the United Press.

There have been other happenings recently which could be viewed as Russian efforts to get on better terms with the West—but both American and British officials point out the Berlin blockade still is on.

Last week the veteran French Communist leader, Marcel Cachin, pleaded in the assembly for an East-West understanding.

Two days later Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's No. 1 Communist, called for big power collaboration and made an offer of cooperation at home.

Then Britain and Poland, one of the Soviet Union's followers, signed a five-year trade agreement. But in London an official asked:

"How can they expect us to fall for their 'peace' line while their policies in Berlin, in Greece, in the Far East go on and on?"

In Washington, Undersecretary of State Lovett said the United States would welcome proof in action. President Truman's inaugural speech left little doubt of his firm attitude toward the "false philosophy" of communism, as he called it.

Pawtucket Man Made Top Rotary Candidate

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP).—Percy Hodgson of Pawtucket, R. I., today was nominated as candidate for president of Rotary International.

His selection was made by the Rotary nominating committee, headed by Frank E. Spain of Birmingham, Ala.

If no other nomination is received from any Rotary Club before April 1, Hodgson automatically will succeed Angus S. Mitchell of Melbourne, Australia, as president. The actual election will take place at Rotary's 1949 convention, to be held June 12-16 in New York City.

U. N. Council Gets Proposal On Indonesia

Lake Success, Jan. 21 (NYHT). A compromise resolution, which sidesteps the question of Dutch aggression and speaks hopefully of a sovereign United States of Indonesia in 1950, was submitted to the Security Council today by the United States, China, Cuba and Norway.

The resolution leaves the Dutch in possession of the Republican territory they seized, but sets up a timetable for free elections and the eventual withdrawal of Netherland troops from Indonesia.

Yakov Malik, the Soviet delegate, promptly asserted the proposal was "fully to the taste of the aggressor" and "fully ignores the legitimate interests of the Indonesian Republic and its people."

The resolution calls for the immediate release of Indonesian political prisoners, for the Dutch to cease military operations and for the Indonesians to stop guerilla warfare.

The resolution was termed "a fundamentally sound answer" to the Indonesian problem by Dr. Philip C. Jessup, the American delegate, but he admitted it was no more than "an effort to assist a settlement."

The council was adjourned until 3 p. m. Tuesday, to give delegates time to study the resolution, which appears certain of approval by a 7 to 0 vote. Argentina, France, the Soviet Union and the Ukraine are expected to abstain.

The Indonesian delegation expressed disappointment—the Dutch refused comment.

2 Powers May Act on Israel

Trans-Jordan Monday, or soon afterward.

The sources said the United States has avoided recognition of the kingdom, which is at war with Israel, because of Zionist pressure and because Washington felt that Trans-Jordan's King Abudllah was tied too strongly to Britain.

One authority described the change in British policy as a "first-class diplomatic triumph for President Truman." The talks which Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador to the United States, had with Mr. Truman and Undersecretary of State Lovett were believed to have had great influence on Britain's policy toward Israel.

Rhodes, Jan. 21 (NYHT).—The Egyptian and Israeli armistice negotiation teams agreed in principle today to the establishment of an armistice commission which will supervise the withdrawal and reduction of the armies in the Negev desert.

The commission will begin functioning immediately upon the conclusion of the armistice pact at Rhodes. It will consist of military officials of Egypt and Israel plus a United Nations truce commission observer who presumably would serve as chairman.

Negotiations are now at the final stage. A neutral observer who arrived today from Cairo reported that no mention of armistice negotiations as such had ever been made by Cairo radio and press.

Egyptian secrecy has created some concern among other representatives here. They foresee violent public reaction in Cairo if armistice terms are announced. The observer said the Egyptian public remained firmly convinced its army had scored brilliant victories in the last desert battle.

U. N. Council Gets Proposal On Indonesia

Lake Success, Jan. 21 (NYHT).—A compromise resolution, which sidesteps the question of Dutch aggression and speaks hopefully of a sovereign United States of Indonesia in 1950, was submitted to the Security Council today by the United States, China, Cuba and Norway.

The resolution leaves the Dutch in possession of the Republican territory they seized, but sets up a timetable for free elections and the eventual withdrawal of Netherland troops from Indonesia.

Yakov Malik, the Soviet delegate, promptly asserted the proposal was "fully to the taste of the aggressor" and "fully ignores the legitimate interests of the Indonesian Republic and its people."

The resolution calls for the immediate release of Indonesian political prisoners, for the Dutch to cease military operations and for the Indonesians to stop guerilla warfare.

The resolution was termed "a fundamentally sound answer" to the Indonesian problem by Dr. Philip C. Jessup, the American delegate, but he admitted it was no more than "an effort to assist a settlement."

The council was adjourned until 3 p. m. Tuesday, to give delegates time to study the resolution, which appears certain of approval by a 7 to 0 vote. Argentina, France, the Soviet Union and the Ukraine are expected to abstain.

The Indonesian delegation expressed disappointment—the Dutch refused comment.

2 Powers May Act on Israel

Trans-Jordan Monday, or soon afterward.

The sources said the United States has avoided recognition of the kingdom, which is at war with Israel, because of Zionist pressure and because Washington felt that Trans-Jordan's King Abudllah was tied too strongly to Britain.

One authority described the change in British policy as a "first-class diplomatic triumph for President Truman." The talks which Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador to the United States, had with Mr. Truman and Undersecretary of State Lovett were believed to have had great influence on Britain's policy toward Israel.

Rhodes, Jan. 21 (NYHT).—The Egyptian and Israeli armistice negotiation teams agreed in principle today to the establishment of an armistice commission which will supervise the withdrawal and reduction of the armies in the Negev desert.

The commission will begin functioning immediately upon the conclusion of the armistice pact at Rhodes. It will consist of military officials of Egypt and Israel plus a United Nations truce commission observer who presumably would serve as chairman.

Negotiations are now at the final stage. A neutral observer who arrived today from Cairo reported that no mention of armistice negotiations as such had ever been made by Cairo radio and press.

Egyptian secrecy has created some concern among other representatives here. They foresee violent public reaction in Cairo if armistice terms are announced. The observer said the Egyptian public remained firmly convinced its army had scored brilliant victories in the last desert battle.

British Airmen, Downed By Israelis, Rejoin Unit

Haifa, Israel, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Two British airmen who were shot down by the Israelis 13 days ago left today to rejoin their unit in the Suez Canal zone.

Flight Lieut. Timothy James McElhaw and Flight Sergt. James Harvey Close were released from Israeli "protective custody" today.

Tokyo, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Chinese Communists hinted today they might demand a part in the occupation of Japan.

Thanks

Put it down if you will to Truman luck, but the weather certainly smiled on Washington on Inauguration Day. Even the forecaster proved to be a doubting Thomas; he prophesied some cloudiness. How unusual a day Thursday was for the festivities was emphasized by the return to dampness as usual on Friday.

But the men and women who worked on the arrangements deserved this bounty. It is impossible to enumerate all the persons and groups that deserve credit for the bang-up fashion in which the Inauguration and parade went off. Special praise ought to be reserved, however, for the Washington police and their borrowed assistants. Not only did they keep order at the ceremonies themselves; they also contrived to keep traffic moving and to expedite the influx and exodus of the crowd in amazingly short order. The same may be said for the transportation companies, which handled vast numbers of passengers with a minimum of delay and discomfort. Not the least of the factors which contributed to the smoothness was the good feeling exhibited by participants and spectators alike.

Conditions of course were eased by a smaller crowd than had been anticipated. It may be that some persons were scared away by all the advance warnings and preparations; also, a substantial number, undoubtedly, preferred to stay home and watch the proceedings in comfort on their television sets. One thing the Thursday spectacle did demonstrate, however, is that Washington can handle a vast number of people without too great strain. Thanks to the vision of Major L'Enfant, the Capital's wide streets and open squares make possible ceremonies that would be out of the question in more densely-built cities. Likewise the reserve of rooms indicates that the community can house a good many extra visitors.

Despite the elaborate efforts in erecting platforms and sidewalk stands, however, the spectator facilities were somewhat less than satisfactory, especially for the Inauguration itself. That is because Washington lacks a suitable stadium that would accommodate not only inaugurations and parades, but also other important events. Certainly if we can plan a ceremony such as Thursday's, we also can plan a better way of handling future inaugurations.

Role For The V. P.

When Alben W. Barkley took the oath of office on Inauguration Day, the country acquired its first Vice President since April, 1945. The present indications are, moreover, that Mr. Barkley will be the kind of Vice President that the country has never before had. The President seems to regard the Vice President as his right-hand man in helping to shape and carry out the Administration's program. It is not improbable that the Vice Presidency will become a more important role than it has ever been before.

There is precedent in the invitation Mr. Truman has given Mr. Barkley to attend Cabinet meetings. That practice was established 28 years ago by President Harding. It is hoped, however, that the very cordial personal and political relations between Messrs. Truman and Barkley will carry their teamwork far beyond the point of keeping the Vice President informed of the affairs of state. Mr. Truman knows from experience the harmful effects of the lack of such a liaison. This newspaper has frequently expressed the view that the Vice President should be an integral part of the Administration, not merely for the sake of continuity in case of emergency but also because of the useful service he can render.

Undoubtedly Mr. Barkley can be of the greatest help to the Administration as a liaison with Congress. His long experience on the Hill and the esteem that he holds there are a fair guarantee of good relations between the White House and the Capitol if each respects the other's proper function. It would be a miracle, of course, if this occurred. Mr. Barkley became the nucleus of a legislative-executive council through which the Administration would work out its legislative problems in close consultation with congressional leaders.

According to the Public Administration Clearing House, eight States have created or activated permanent legislative councils since 1946. That brings to 23 the total number of States making use of such agencies for legislative planning and leadership. In a limited fashion President Truman is using his meetings with the so-called big four of Congress for the same purpose. We cannot help thinking, however, that there would be a notable advantage in formalizing this liaison agency and extending it to include all the leaders of Congress—the members of properly constituted majority policy committees in both the Senate and House.

Crumbling In Nanking

The situation in Nanking is in a state of confusion which is typically Chinese. Even in civil war sharp breaks are rare, and in the dim light of a dying regime, feints and maneuvers are the order of the day, executed in a ritual of face-saving that is almost protocolic. So it has been with Chiang Kai-shek. The penultimate state has been his relegation of authority in Nanking to the Vice President, Gen. Li Tsung-jen.

Li is a man of standing who has been in and out in his relation with Chiang Kai-shek, and is well and favorably known for his vigorous, though spasmodic, fighting against the Japanese. He has nothing to do with the corrupt clique that virtually owned as well as were owned by Chiang Kai-shek. Indeed, Li's elevation to the Vice Presidency last year was a response to the national demand for a Nanking house-cleaning. He has not been able, however, to make any change, partly because he had no power, partly because the situation was too putrescent to cure. The last coup of the gang surrounding Chiang Kai-shek was the currency reform of last year with which the regime made its last sortie into the pockets of the long suffering Chinese people.

Chiang Kai-shek in recent times lived up to the name he adopted for himself when he was a military student in Japan, viz, "immovable stone," or Kai-shek. His stubbornness is classic. It was this characteristic, as well as his Chinese sense of loyalty, which prevented him from undertaking reform. He took no advice, certainly not from Americans. But this stubbornness was a latter-day characteristic. It made him lose virtue in Chinese eyes, and is explicable in Actonian terms in the inevitable decay of an egoistic authoritarianism which admitted of no check, not even the self-appraisement which with the aid of tradition and the court censors marked the great emperors in Chinese history.

But, as we say, the Chinese dictator was not always immovable. Indeed, in the early years he was a man of statecraft, guile and sudden action. He disposed of the Communists in 1927 with a mixture of all three attributes. He had had the aid of Soviet advisers under Galens and Borodin in building up his military academy at Canton for the revolution against warlord China which put him into the Presidency. In the middle twenties he had learned Soviet techniques in a course of indoctrination in Moscow. He and his Kuomintang had a unique fellow-traveling relation with the Comintern. But he ousted the Soviet Russians as soon as the revolution arrived at the Yangtze in mid-1927. Not only so; he sent them fleeing back to Moscow, and so swiftly that the Soviet debacle almost knocked Stalin off his Muscovite pedestal. And then Chiang turned on the Chinese Communists with a fury and ferocity almost the equal of Cromwell's, leaving only the nuclei which grew into the present movement under Mao Tse-tung.

Even the so-called Sian episode of December, 1936, was not evidence of stubbornness. In Sian he was kidnaped by the Manchurians aided by the Communists, and here he languished till he had pledged himself to a belligerent policy toward the aggressive Japanese, with whom he had been content more or less to fence. In history Sian will probably be as much of a landmark as Munich. Stalin and Chiang were playing an Oriental game for the prize of getting the other fellow to challenge the Japanese. Through his Manchurian and Communist dupes, Stalin won, and so eased his eastern borders, then under threat from the Japanese, and diverted the Japanese against China. At the time of Sian Chiang knew better than his captors what was wise for China.

In all this context the personal feud between Stalin and Chiang is easy to understand. Stalin is probably more satisfied to see Chiang Kai-shek in eclipse than to see Communists gaining in strength and power and confidence. As for Chiang, before his exit he tried to repeat the game he had played and lost with Stalin, this time with Americans as his foil. Specifically Chiang wanted to insure his survival by embroiling America with Russia, but this game he also lost. He leaves the stage with a military reputation sadly tarnished and, what is more important in China, his name and record as a statesman considerably diminished.

No leader in China can canalize his influence without an army. The prospects ahead of Li Tsung-jen, even with the aid of his blood-brother, the Moslem general Pai Chung-hsi, are far from bright. No doubt he knows it. His problem consists of trying to make some kind of a bargain with the Communists. He will doubtless persevere with it in spite of his status in Communist eyes as a "war criminal." An arrangement with the Communists is almost out of consideration, though not quite; for the Communists in China are not monolithic, having cliques to contend with, as well as problems in administering the territory they are amassing.

Missing Governors

The absence from the Inaugural parade of Governor Dewey of New York and Governor Warren of California may be regarded by some people as poor sportsmanship on the part of these defeated candidates. We believe, however, that their decision not to participate showed sound judgment. For their presence among the parading hosts might well have been a signal for partisan outbreaks among the spectators that would have marred the spirit of an essentially non-partisan tribute to the newly elected head of the Government and the vice head. On such occasions it is most fitting for Republicans who are Governors of States and lesser lights to do honor to the Chief Executive. But there are a few exceptions to this general rule of conduct. Defeated candidates for the presidential and vice presidential office, whether public officials or private citizens, inevitably become symbols of discord. Their appearance at inaugural celebrations for their successful rivals arouses dormant personal animosities, and recalls memories of partisan clashes.

The mingling of boos and applause that greeted the parading Dixiecrat candidate for President, Governor Thurmond of South Carolina, and President Truman's cold reception of his greeting, is proof that this particular brand of sportsmanship (or effrontery) is the wrong sort. If there had been a few more Thurmonds in the line of march or if Governor Dewey and Governor Warren had ventured to intrude, it is doubtful whether Washington would have seen and enjoyed the kind of parade that so impressively and hearteningly demonstrated the essential unity of the American people—a unity that triumphs over factionalism within parties and strife between parties.

Second Thoughts

The resignation of ECA Deputy Administrator Howard Bruce is said to have been in the hands of the President before Mr. Bruce broadcast his unsubstantiated charges that several European countries were reselling to the United States excessive amounts of scrap from scarce metals originally bought with ECA funds. Mr. Bruce may have yielded to the temptation that sometimes overcomes officials about to withdraw from public service to express their minds in disregard of the effect on the organization to which he is attached. If so, he has apparently repented, for on Wednesday he issued a long statement on the subject of aluminum and lead shipments that can only be regarded as a belated apologia for the previous attacks which aroused such deep resentment abroad.

Mr. Bruce points out that the ECA and the Department of Commerce, with the full cooperation of the governments of United Kingdom, Belgium and the Netherlands, whom he accused of profiteering at our expense, are currently analyzing statistics of aluminum and lead shipments in order to determine the nature and sources of the imports into the United States. By Mr. Bruce's own admission it will take several weeks to complete this survey—all the more reason why he should have suspended judgment until the cause of discrepancies between United States statistics of imports and the export figures of European countries could be authoritatively determined. However, the inquiry has already proceeded far enough to indicate that a major portion of the imports subject to investigation consist of transshipments of metals through one or more countries, listed by the United States authorities as "coming from sources other than those shown in the statistics of the European countries." In other words, discrepancies in the official trade data do not necessarily imply skullduggery on the part of European beneficiaries of the recovery program.

Mr. Bruce is even prepared to concede that "shipments of secondary metals into this country through private channels of trade, whether directly or as transshipments, regardless of their point of origin, constitute in themselves no ground for criticism of any participating country or its nationals." This measured language, in sharp contrast to the threatening tone of earlier admonitions, doubtless reveals the chastening influence of an indignant public reaction. Handsome though the retraction may be, it actually emphasizes the irresponsible character of the earlier denunciation.

The inquiry now in progress may justify some of the charges that imports of aluminum scrap and lead have been excessive since ECA began to function. Certainly the sudden sharp rise in such imports in 1948 requires an explanation. Various legitimate reasons for the step-up of such imports are mentioned in the ECA statement. But even if dealings are absolutely aboveboard, it is quite possible that secondary metal shipped to the United States could be utilized to better effect at home by exporting countries. In that way the drain on American supplies of scarce metals would be lessened. Specifically fewer ECA dollars would be needed for the purchase of virgin aluminum in the United States if western Europe could utilize its own scrap to better advantage. These are the kind of problems worthy of intensive study. Whatever the findings of the experts may be, however, they have no bearing on the question of Mr. Bruce's fitness for the office that he is about to surrender.

OLD GREY CAT

The old grey cat has moon-strange eyes.
He is night knowing and rat wise.

When darkness blacks out waning light,
The old grey cat knows no such night.

His eyes are full moons to the rim.
A soft grey world it is to him.

Grey shadows glide like shapes of dream.
He stiffens, springs. A reedy scream

Breaks quiet where a wraith has lain,
And quiet closes in again.

The old grey cat has moons for eyes.
He sees at night. Though fierceness lies

In his tamed heart, a fleet caress
Will brim his eyes with gentleness.

Taft-Hartley Repeal

It is not neeessary to subscribe to the doctrine of verbal inspiration of the Taft-Hartley Act to feel that the most publicized attacks upon it have been based on general animus rather than specific criticism.

It is possible, of course, to cite this or that condemnatory resolution, and difficult to prove that it is not a dependable index to what "labor" really feels. But when we asked flatly whether labor wants an unrestricted right to strike, or to compel union membership, or legal exemption from any interference with union activities or any responsibility for the consequences, labor's reply would be just as flatly in the negative, and for a very obvious reason.

The most ardent union member is also the head of a family, a churchgoer, a taxpayer, a citizen, a consumer. The labor union is subordinate to these relationships.

The weakness of the labor movement has not been due to this superloyalty but because labor leadership has failed to stress it. In concentrating upon an unrealistic and narrow focus, labor has neglected its main concerns. Wages, for instance, go into their second, or third, or fourth, or nth round. With each increase labor finds itself with less food to eat, poorer clothes to wear, unsatisfactory and unobtainable housing.

It is like listening to a drunk in an operating room to hear that labor's first concern in 1949 will be reenactment of the Wagner Act of 1935. The danger is not in any chance of reenactment but the bleary view of political realities implied in any such isolationist aim. The Wagner Act found legal justification in the interlaced intricacies of commerce that erased the reality of multiple State sovereignties. The discriminatory discharge of a dry goods shipping clerk was deemed to endanger the entire system of production and distribution upon which the community depended for existence.

The Taft-Hartley Act was adopted by Congress at a time when organized labor was in secession. The Taft-Hartley Act was enacted in the face of strenuous labor protest and prophecies of disaster. Yet in the following year and a half organized labor has shown itself undamaged. A large segment of labor has been given a chance to put its house in order. If the isolationist policy of 1947 is still the best that labor can offer, it will be at hazard of the ancient but inexorable judgment: "Thou hast been tried in the balance and found wanting."

Public Housing

This is in reply to David Solomon's letter of January 17 on "Public Housing."

When the papers have printed that $3000, $4000 even $5000 families live in subsidized housing right now, supported by the toil of the $3000-$5000 families, the public would not press for public housing as he urges. Yes, taking families earning $3000-$5000 incomes away from the free enterprise real estate market does injure us and is another opening wedge to a controlled police state, socialism, etc. For under-$2500 families perhaps, with stringent safeguards only.

For 15 years I made $3000 to $4000 a year only and was forced (through taxes) to support people in such projects enjoying as much and more than my efforts secured me. An outrage surely.

Cooperative Apartments

Plant Adminstrator Cogwell's statement to the press with respect to the sale of ancient apartment houses on a cooperative basis is of particular interest to me. I can't help but wonder why he hasn't raised an objection to this practice previously.

Already hundreds of tenants have been forced to purchase substandard apartments at fantastically high prices rather than be put out in the cold. These people have been coerced into deals that should trouble the conscience of even the most unscrupulous operator.

Certain real estate brokers and operators have feathered their nests at the expense of helpless citizens. These victims have been without support that should have been offered by Mr. Cogwell's office before this. I would be very happy to see him exert all his efforts to put an immediate stop to this method of foisting decrepit property on people caught in the squeeze.

Freedom Train

My visit to the Freedom Train impressed me very much. While I, with some several hundred others, stood in line almost an hour, the Ambassador from "West Myopia," or some other such place was escorted through the train, breaking in ahead and protected by Marines. I also understand if one has a congressional pass one does not have to mix with the crowd and take one's turn.

Dutch Rule

In his letter of January 14, "Realist" makes the answer to the Indonesian problem sound very simple by merely basing his analysis on the assumption that "the Dutch are unwilling or unable to tutor their colonial wards in the art of independence so as to prevent them from falling into communism."

He shows his ignorance of Dutch history in the Indies when he cries out: "What is their record in preparing the people for ultimate independence?"

The record is as follows:

Queen Wilhelmina initiated such preparations for independence in 1901 when she told the Dutch Parliament that the "Netherlands have a moral duty to fulfill toward the peoples of the Indies." By 1916, the Parliament had enacted legislation to set up a representative body for the islands, the "People's Council." Two years later the council met for the first time in Batavia.

In 1922, the council was made into a colegislative assembly and the authority of the Netherlands cabinet and parliament were correspondingly reduced. In 1929, the council was granted an Indonesian majority, and in 1942, the government announced that it was making deliberate preparations for Indonesian independence.

In 1946, at Malino, on Celebes Island, Indonesian political leaders from territories outside the "republic" proposed the establishmert of a federated Indonesia; this plan was eventually adopted and steps were taken to put it into effect. The official postwar policy of the Netherlands government was voiced by Wilhelmina on February 3, 1948, when, in a broadcast to the United States, she said: ". . . We know that in our days no relationship between nations can be stable unless it is based on mutual consent and mutual effort . . . Colonialism is dead."

Chiang Kai-shek's Record

An Associated Press dispatch of January 17 states that Representative Sol Bloom, who becomes chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has said that Chiang Kai-shek and the gang with him will have to be kicked out before China can be defended against the Communists."

What Mr. Bloom has forgotten is that the Nationalist government of China under Chiang Kai-shek carried on a major war against Japan for 4½ years before Pearl Harbor. During that period the United States was supplying Japan with oil, scrap iron and munitions of war.

The losses of China in manpower due to battle and devastation were exceedingly great. But so were the losses of the Japanese. It has been estimated that one million Japanese troops were lost in the Chinese War as well as huge quantities of war munitions expended.

Had all those troops and munitions been available to Japan, and no Chinese war on their hands, on December 7, 1941, we would probably be fighting in the Far East today, and untold thousands of American lives would have been sacrificed.

For this we have to thank Chiang Kai-shek, who never wavered in his determination to carry on the war until the last Japanese was out of China.

Mr. Bloom by referring to the Nationalist government as a "gang" evidently ignores, or is ignorant of the fact, that many of the ablest men in China are in government service and are laboring to rescue their country from the difficulties surrounding it.

There are of course grafters in the public service also. But that is not a situation peculiar to China.

Mr. Bloom implies that when Chiang Kai-shek and his "gang" are out, some settlement of the Chinese Communist situation can be reached. It would be interesting to know what plan he has in mind to attain that end. It certainly should not be the "appeasement policy" recommended by Mr. Marshall as a result of his visit to China.

Mr. Bloom is evidently unaware that Chiang Kai-shek has been fighting communism in China for 21 years. In view of our recent vast expenditures to that end in Europe, he should have our commendation rather than our censure.

The Nationalist government has many faults. However, it represents more closely what we consider a democracy than any other that may succeed it.

Had we supported this government consistently from the beginning of the Japanese invasion of Manchuria it would be firmly in the saddle today. To use Mr. Willkie's expression we have had in the Chinese people a "vast reservoir of good will." That is in danger of being lost, through ignorance of the Far East and inept diplomacy. Some of it can be saved if we continue our recognition of the Nationalist government, even if it is driven to Formosa or Canton, and refuse our recognition to any Chinese element which follows the dictates of Moscow.

As for Chiang Kai-shek, it is the custom of some to take a kick at the lion when down, but future impartial historians will properly evaluate his great services to the United States during the years of the Pacific war.

Video Man In the Making

By Malvina Lindsay

Second Hand Living

INAUGURAL celebrations have again brought to the fore the question of where television is taking us. Since it is estimated that more persons witnessed the Washington ceremonies by video than attended all previous 31 presidential inaugurations combined, there is some wonder if the city boosters will be able to scare up a crowd in the flesh four years hence.

In fact the entire trend of once hail fellow Americans toward exclusiveness is worrying some people. Though no one would have guessed it this week, some old-time Washingtonians believe people are staying home from inaugurals and other public ceremonies far more than they used to, though whether it is because of radio and television or of a sophisticated dislike of mob is hard to say.

Time was, we are told, when virtually everyone's relatives came to town for inaugurals, and when the entire town went "down to the Avenue" and took in what was something of a combination of a carnival and camp meeting week. Though it seemed Thursday that not only Washington but the entire Nation was "down on the Avenue," yet all hearth-side video parties drew big houses. And thousands of cold, footsore crowd minglers are now ripe fruit for a good television salesman to pick off.

WHILE Americans will probably never lose their zest for going where everybody else is going, yet if television becomes one of the 10 leading industries of the country by 1953, as Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff has predicted, the inaugural of that year may play to a smaller "studio" audience. But it will be witnessed from coast to coast on possibly 15 million television sets. What is more, we might expect by then the doings of Congress and other public bodies to be more closely followed by means of video.

All this presents rosy possibilities of more alert citizenship—also of a more serene living "far from the madding crowd." But there is another side of the picture that is bothering parents, teachers, book publishers, librarians and psychologists. In brief, it is the trend accentuated by television to experience life passively and vicariously.

The intense absorption of children in television may portend, it is feared, a video man of the future who merely sits and watches instead of acts. Some teachers complain that television programs are keeping pupils from doing their homework and decreasing their interest in school libraries. Many parents are concerned because their boys and girls watch plays and sports constantly on television instead of playing outdoors, engaging in sports themselves or using their own initiative to entertain themselves. In homes where there are television sets both children and adults tend to decrease their reading of books. Yet the television networks insist the growing use of educational programs will prove a great mental stimulant to young and old.

THE SIT and watch motif is even upsetting the field of interior decoration and furniture design. With the television set becoming the focal point of living rooms, furniture must be designed to play second fiddle to it.

Some social scientists who take a pessimistic view of television see it as tending to make people passive robots and as discouraging man's self-reliant and creative endeavor. Today's mechanization trend in both mental and physical living, they warn, is likely to rob people of individuality and personality in thinking and action. Something is to be said, they point out, for the man or woman who has the energy and initiative to compete in a crowd to see an inaugural parade instead of watching it from an easy chair.

However, the television people insist their gadget will not only save human energy for more important tasks than parade watching, but will diffuse information and stimulate thinking among the masses of people. And on this, they point out, depends the successful functioning of the democratic system.

Both sides agree that television, like atomic energy, can't be stopped, that it is bringing about a social revolution of its own. Whether the video man it is producing turns out to be a robot or a better individual depends on how he handles his new toy.

Drive On "Undesirables"

What are we going to do about the undesirable citizens in our midst and the increasing crime wave throughout the Nation?

Why not prohibit corner loafing, where men are permitted to congregate on corners often using abusive and vulgar language, drinking to excess? Clear these street corners and alleyways of such idlers, make a drive on these liquor and gambling dens throughout the city.

Put stronger teeth in the vagrancy laws and give stiffer jail sentences to offenders caught. Some of the judges are too lenient. We have many fine, zealous and efficient policemen in the city. Why not cooperate with them and support them to the fullest in their efforts to break up crime?

Make it tough for these undesirables, enforce the present law, make needed laws, put known offenders away until they learn to be good and respectful Americans and thus make our streets and communities safe for all.

Matter of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

The Meaning Of De Gaulle

PARIS.—In the eyes of a visitor from the moon, Charles de Gaulle would appear as only one more symptom of the polarization of politics around the extremes of Right and Left that is a major phenomenon of our dark times. In the eyes of a great many Frenchmen, De Gaulle represents the only hope for the strong and stable government which France now lacks. But in the eyes of an American observer, De Gaulle is chiefly interesting in relation to the somewhat jerrybuilt structure of resistance in Soviet imperialism which has been so laboriously put together in the last three years under the leadership of Washington.

As an individual, De Gaulle is inevitably difficult for Americans to understand. He comes, after all, straight out of the seventeenth century. With his tall, hieratic figure he looks as different as possible from a modern politician. His language, as the brilliant Janet Flanner has remarked, is the French of Bossuet. And his conception of the role of France in Europe—even in the Europe over which the Kremlin hangs like a long, black shadow, is not very different from the conception prevailing in the epoch of Louis XIV.

The American difficulty with De Gaulle, so notably illustrated in his relations with Franklin Roosevelt, is increased by his almost mystical faith in his own destiny, his compensating lack of respect for the human race in general, and his passionate, obstinate insistence upon being French. No one could be less a citizen of the world or more a citizen of his own country. All his qualities were somehow summed up, in the early months after the French surrender, when he remarked to one of his startled and somewhat offended collaborators, "You know, I am making Free France from the burnt ends of matches."

FINALLY, although he thinks of history in endless vistas, the very intensity of his French feeling makes him a little provincial. With this provincialism must always have gone a tendency to be suspicious. And the idiotic treatment of De Gaulle in wartime, primarily by the American policy makers, has increased this tendency to be suspicious to an extraordinary degree.

When Winston Churchill invited him to Britain just before D-Day he at first refused the invitation on the ground that he had no guaranty that he would not be placed in confinement by the British and Americans. In the same way he has lately been accusing the unfortunate British, who after all take their German policy chiefly from us, of "following their traditional European policy of a balance of power, and seeking to divide France from Germany."

No one can now predict which side will be victorious in the strange struggle that is now going on between the French center parties and the De Gaulle movement. But from the standpoint of American policy the important fact about De Gaulle is not that he may win, or that his strongly marked character may make him difficult to deal with, or that the world and France owe him much for what he did during the war, or even that his victory now would probably create almost as many French internal problems as it would solve.

THE IMPORTANT point about De Gaulle is, very simply, that when he speaks about foreign affairs he is essentially expressing the instinctive view of the French man in the street. This is one of his greatest strengths. Thus whether or not he is to come to power—the betting at this moment is lightly against him—what De Gaulle says is of the utmost importance to us.

What he says is chiefly about Germany, his main preoccupation. Stripped of all the verbiage, his solution of the German problem can be simply described. First, he would internationalize the Ruhr, thus sterilizing the basic asset of the German people. Second, he would create what he calls a "Federative Germany," which means a Germany composed of petty states without any strong central power. Third, he would then set Germany free from control, except in the Ruhr, and he would incorporate the "Federative Germans" into a new European Union.

His speeches make it clear both that he is reluctant to include Britain in this European Union, and that in any case he considers France should be the new union's dominant power. The role of the United States in this concept is apparently to provide the necessary financing. There are other features of special interest, but two main facts stick out most importantly.

FIRST, De Gaulle trusts no other nation to safeguard the interests of France. And second, although theoretically persuasive, he is inherently impractical. For the German people will never permanently submit to such a program as De Gaulle's, unless foreign bayonets are permanently present to make them submit.

If De Gaulle is impractical, yet represents the passionate convictions of the majority of Frenchmen, what then is the answer? The answer seems to lie in a fundamental fact. De Gaulle's impulse to reject most of what the Western powers have done to date arises not from mere French chauvinism. It arises, rather, from the previously noted absence of any real sense of security in France.

Truman Says Party Platform Isn't Just a 'Scrap of Paper'

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman said last night that the Democratic platform of 1948 "was not a scrap of paper" and called on his party to help him write it into law.

The Chief Executive made the statement in the course of another amazing display of physical stamina—a day's work and attendance at two huge receptions and a post-inaugural ball, all after an 18-hour whirl on Thursday and only 2½ hours of sleep.

He spoke at a crowded reception given by Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, at the Shoreham Hotel.

Later, in the same hotel, he attended a ball given in honor of Vice President Alben W. Barkley by the Kentucky State Society. There he spoke briefly in tribute to the Vice President. He and the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman left the ball shortly before 11 p. m.

The President and his family started the evening by attending a reception in the Wardman Park Hotel given by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, Mrs. Snyder and their daughter Drucie. At the Snyder reception Mr. Truman shook hands with 1400 guests, but at the affair given by McGrath, because of the lack of time, he made a brief talk instead.

Mr. Truman criticized the Republican platform as a scrap of paper and said he had given the Republicans an opportunity to implement it. He referred, obviously, to the special session of the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress which he called after he had been nominated at the Philadelphia Democratic convention last July.

He then outlined steps he has taken to carry out the Democratic platform, and urged all his hearers to "get behind Congress, the Vice President and the President on the platform on which we said we stood and on which the Vice President and I do stand."

The Chief Executive went to bed at 3 a. m. and was up at 5:30 a. m. He emerged from Blair House, his temporary abode, at 8:25 o'clock with a brief case under his arm, and walked across the street to his office in the White House.

At 9 a. m., he was at the Capitol, where Representative Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), remarked that he looked "fresh as a daisy." On the Hill he had breakfast with members of the Missouri members of Congress, Republicans as well as Democrats.

Returning to the White House, Mr. Truman greeted Dean Acheson, his new Secretary of State, and saw him sworn into office. The ceremony took place in the President's office in the presence of 80 or so dignitaries and friends.

By this time, a cold rain was pelting Washington and the whole town was talking about "Truman luck"—about how the heavens had held off until the sunsplashed inaugural was history.

At noon, the President, the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman were on their way to the Departmental Auditorium, where the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee was holding forth. The women gave Mr. Truman a bronze bust of himself, and he made a little speech of acceptance.

"I went down to the Capitol this morning to have breakfast with the Missouri delegation," he said. "In spite of the fact that I got to bed at 3 o'clock and got up at 5:30, I made it down there in time.

"And Mr. Cannon, in introducing me, made the statement that he was introducing the most powerful man in the world, who is now President of the United States.

"And I explained to the Congressman that I didn't think that was quite true because I couldn't get my wife and daughter up to come with me!"

Expressing his appreciation of the bronze bust, Mr. Truman said:

"Nobody, of course, can understand what he looks like to other people; he can only see one side of himself. And if he looks in the mirror, he is not right sure whether that is true or not, because he thinks he's better looking than th t . . .

"I hope that it will not be necessary at some future time to have it (the bust) destroyed, as I have seen done with public men who have been awarded things of this kind while they were yet alive. I hope that you will always feel like I should have had this in the beginning and . . . continue to have it in the future."

Rep. Dawson Is Honored by 1000 at Dinner

More than 1000 persons attended a testimonial dinner for Representative William Levi Davidson, Chicago Democrat and first Negro to head a House committee, last night in the Interior Department dining room.

Nearly 200 more were turned away, for lack of space.

A tribute inscribed on a bronze plaque given the grandson of slaves who now represents Illinois' First Congressional District hailed him as "herald of a new day for the little people."

Other tributes were paid by such speakers as Attorney General Tom Clark, Senator Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.), Representatives John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) and Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.), Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing and others.

"An understanding gentleman, Bill Dawson typifies the finest type of American," said Representative McCormack.

"The word of President Truman is my platform for civil rights," Senator Lucas asserted.

Ewing was confined to bed, but his speech was read by his son, James D. Ewing, Bangor, Me., editor. "I believe," it went, "that if in all these difficult and complex racial problems we take just one problem at a time and settle it fairly and justly we will make far more progress than if we attempt to solve them all at once."

Truman Says Asia Could Help U. S. Prosperity

President Truman, in an impromptu talk at a breakfast given by Missouri Congressmen at the Capitol yesterday, declared that prosperity in the United States would be helped by improving the lot of other countries.

One Missouri Congressman quoted him as saying that if the purchasing power of Asia could be raised a little—perhaps 1 or 2 per cent—the United States would enjoy 100 years of prosperity.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Beyond The Marshall Plan

ONE OF the earlier drafts of President Truman's Inaugural address contained a significant sentence, later stricken out. While the reasons for cutting it out were valid, the President's intentions might have been clearer if it had been left in.

Childs

In point No. 4 of his outline of the goals of American foreign policy the President proposed that American capital and labor combine to make available to other nations the benefits of American industrial organization. Thereby, living standards around the world would be raised.

Capital, he suggested in his address, should be advanced on the principle that benefits must flow mutually to the American investor and to the people of the country where the money is invested. This, as the President said, is a repudiation of the "old imperialism — exploitation for foreign profit." The sentence deleted from that part of the message, in effect, declared:

"This proposal is intended to take up where the Marshall Plan leaves off."

One reason the blue pencil crossed this out was because the President did not want to leave the impression that he was talking only about the Marshall Plan countries. He was extending the Truman Fair Deal not merely to western Europe but to the world.

THERE was also the fear that such a reference to the Marshall Plan might be misunderstood at a time when Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and his assistants are about to present to Congress a request for $4,300,000,000 for the second year of operations. The most careful and detailed study is going into the presentation Mr. Hoffman will make.

The first reports submitted by individual Marshall Plan countries covering their position in the second year of the aid program showed far too little coordination. Thus, three or four countries might show that each was planning to absorb the entire market for textiles of, say, the Argentine. Each was planning to export all its luxury goods and import nothing but necessities.

Mr. Hoffman and his staff are making a strenuous effort to get more coordination. In all his talks with heads of state and cabinet ministers during his recent visit to Europe, the boss of ECA stressed the urgent necessity for the Europeans themselves, through their own organization, to assume greater responsibility. Mr. Hoffman is confident this will come.

But even if there is 100 per cent cooperation, there still will be a deficit in western Europe in 1952 when the Marshall Plan is to end. The brilliant young French economist, Robert Marjolin, recently estimated the balance-of-payments deficit in '52 at three billion dollars.

YET, the American people were sold, and maybe oversold, on the idea that a four-year plan or a five-year plan would repair all the ravages of war in stricken Europe and start the Western countries out on an independent, self-sustaining basis. The American people would be most reluctant to believe that the system of loans and grants would be extended beyond 1952. This is clearly understood in the White House, and point No. 4 in the President's message was an effort to look beyond that deadline.

The truth is that it was not the war alone that brought Europe to its present plight. The economic decline can be traced back at least 50 years.

European productivity remained more or less static in the years that American industry was developing the technology that has turned out a torrent of goods hitherto undreamed of. Take electric power as an example. The American worker has from two to three times as many power units to help him do his work as does the average European worker. And those power units are used far more efficiently than they are in Europe.

That is the background for point No. 4. The President was looking ahead for ways and means of sharing the technology and sharing the benefits of the American system to the advantage of borrower and lender.

It is not too early to work toward such a goal. Above all, it is not too early to let people know that a neat tidying up cannot be done in five years. It is a stubborn, long-term trend that this country is combating, with the Marshall Plan as a first and emergency measure. Wisely and with foresight the President has now looked beyond this emergency step.

The ordination ceremony will be at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle, at 8 p. m.

Alexandria Plans Council Of Churches

A group of Alexandria, Va., clergymen are working on plans to form an Alexandria Council of Churches.

Ministers backing the project are members of the Alexandria Ministerial Association, which represents 15 Protestant churches. The group has discussed formation of the council with Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Within the next month the association hopes to call a meeting of clergymen and laymen to discuss by-laws and a constitution. The Rev. B. B. Comer Lile, rector of Christ Church, heads the committee to arrange the meeting. The Rev. Ernest F. Campbell of First Baptist Church is head of the ministerial association.

There are about 36 churches in Alexandria, and about 30 of them would be possible members of the council, Mr. Lile said. Of this group, however, several churches do not have full-time ministers. A few Alexandria churches now work with the Washington Federation.

Senate GOP Opens Campaigning Early

ators" for the national committee meting.

Although House Republican leaders have not announced any formal decision, they are expected to send Representative Leonard W. Hall (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Republican campaign committee, to look out for the interests of House GOP legislators at the Omaha huddle.

Republicans must pick up seven Senate seats in 1950 to overcome the present 54 to 42 Senate Democratic majority.

32 Up for Reelection

What helped spark Senate Republicans into action was a 1950 Senate prospectus by Brewster showing 1950 is a "crucial year" for Republican gains in the Senate.

Thirty-two Senators are up for reelection in 1950, 12 Republicans and 20 Democrats. Brewster's survey showed that 12 of the Democratic seats at stake are from States above the Mason-Dixon line, where Republicans have a reasonable chance to win. He said from 8 to 10 of the Democratic seats, sufficient to give Republicans Senate control, can be "seriously contested."

In contrast, he said, the 1952 outlook for winning back the Senate, on a purely mathematical basis, is as bleak as it was in 1948, when Republicans lost the Senate. Only five Democratic Senators from States above the Mason-Dixon line must run again in 1952. Brewster said Republicans can only hope to win two or three of these. Thus it boils down to a "now or 1954" Senate proposition for the GOP.

Taft Wants Voice in It

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), who himself must stand for reelection in 1950, told reporters Senate Republicans wanted to be consulted in advance before their national committee calls a conference to map a program for the 1950 campaign.

"After all, we are the ones who have to run," Taft said. "We have no objection to their appointing a committee to study plans for holding such a conference. But we think our own campaign committees should be consulted about the scope of the conference and who will attend before there is any final decision."

Wherry said he had no objection to a party meeting "at the proper time and place, but I think Congress can develop these issues."

"If we can't develop an alternative to legislation some of us feel goes far to the left in socializing the country, then the two-party system is lost," said Wherry.

"Wow, what a nightmare! I dreamed I was a pincushion!"

Military Base Pay Decision Change Sought

By The Associated Press

Five Government departments have asked the Supreme Court to reconsider its recent decision applying the wage-hour law to United States military bases on foreign soil.

They say the decision, if permitted to stand, will hamper the Nation's foreign policies and defense plans and cost the Government many hundreds of millions of dollars.

Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall told the court its ruling may even cause foreign governments to cancel agreements permitting maintenance of United States bases. He said it might hamper the use of secret bases the United States is building on foreign soil.

Royall said the decision probably also will require applying the wage-hour law's 40-cent minimum wage and overtime provisions to workers in occupied areas in Europe and Japan.

A memorandum filed with the court by the Justice Department asking for reconsideration of the December 6 decision was joined by the State, Army, Navy and Labor Departments.

That decision said that workers at the United States military base in Bermuda, obtained from Great Britain in 1941 on a 99-year lease are entitled to the protection of the wage-hour law.

The court ruled the Bermuda base is a "possession" of this country so far as the wage-hour law is concerned.

The Army Secretary said the court ruled that (1) foreign workmen employed at such bases must be paid the minimum wage and overtime pay, and (2) the bases are "possessions" of the United States in spite of foreign sovereignty.

Many such governments have their own pay standards which, when exceeded, "seriously disrupt the local economy," the memorandum to the court said.

Royal said the decision is bound to bring "vigorous opposition" from foreign governments to leasing any new base sites and, as for present bases in other countries:

"It would not be unexpected if some of the foreign governments involved were to compel the curtailment or abandonment of such projects."

The cost increase for this Government on construction, he estimated, "will doubtless run into the hundreds of millions."

Royall said there are a number of secret bases under construction on foreign soil, too, and application of the wage-hour law to them may mean lawsuits disclosing their extent and purpose.

'Easy Street' Is Topic

The Rev. Dr. Karl Heath Kopf will preach on "Where Is Easy Street?" at 11 a. m. Sunday at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw. The sermon is the third in a series on "Hard Questions From the Bible and Life."

Congregation Urged to Work For U. S. Ideals

Rabbi Morris Pickholz last night reminded members of the Washington Highlands Jewish Congregation that their responsibility as citizens does not end at the ballot box.

In a sermon on "Inaugural Responsibility," Rabbi Pickholz, spiritual leader of the congregation, asserted that President Truman has proved he is capable of shouldering the responsibility thrust upon him as "leader of the world's greatest democracy."

He urged members to dedicate themselves "to the ideals and traditions upon which this great country was founded, and to work for their implementation in our own communities and throughout the United States." He called upon them to take an active part in a program to make American ideals triumphant throughout the world.

Rabbi Pickholz also prayed that President Truman would have the courage and determination to carry on with his domestic and foreign programs.

Lutheran Mission Society to Launch Annual Roll Call

The twenty-first annual roll call of the Lutheran Inner Mission Society will be launched at a dinner at Grace Lutheran Church, 16th and Varnum sts. nw. on Thursday at 6:30 p. m.

The society represents all Lutherans in the Greater Washington area in work in the fields of community, social and chaplaincy service. This year's appeal is for $21,000, an increase of $1000 over last year's budget, according to the Rev. Donald F. Bautz, executive director of the society.

The Rev. Robert W. Long, president of the board of directors of the society and pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington, will commission the volunteer workers, who will conduct the campaign in 35 local churches February 1-15.

Harry Shoup of Grace Church and George Lautz of Christ Church are co-chairmen of the drive. Area chairmen are Ruben Silverson, Augustana Church, Emory Ussery of Grace Church, Roy Borden of Atonement Church, Col. Lee Ward of Trinity, Mount Ranier and Art Heimburger of Faith, Arlington.

President Has Been Studying His World Plan for Months

November 24 before the FAO conference at the Shoreham Hotel. At that time the delegates of the 57 nations in FAO were discussing the FAO program to aid underdeveloped areas technologically. Mr. Truman, at that time, said:

"Underdeveloped countries offer a challenge to the ingenuity of those nations which have greater resources. FAO has clearly recognized the importance of this problem and the responsibility of all countries in helping to solve it.

"The United States is happy to join with other countries in FAO in giving freely of our technical experience and knowledge in the job of agricultural improvement—making grass grow where it never grew before—irrigating dry land—developing crops for special purposes—and combating crop plagues and pests.

"I can promise you," the President declared, raising his voice for emphasis, "that this country will continue to send its experts wherever FAO believes they are needed."

Talk With McCloy Reported

Dodd is also believed to have reviewed a world program along these lines with John J. McCloy, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development at meetings he had with McCloy before starting his world trip.

Dodd's itinerary and the meetings he plans to take part in on his trip indicate he may be laying the groundwork—or at least getting a closer look-see—for a report back to Mr. Truman.

Dodd will spend much of his time in many countries that may be considered "underdeveloped." On his itinerary are Australia, Burma, China, Egypt, Greece, India, Italy, Pakistan, the Philippines, Portugal, Siam, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

At the FAO Conference both Australia and the United Kingdom took an active role in discussions about lending technical knowledge to peoples who are limited in that regard. Both countries have large areas of underdeveloped colonial lands. Australia not only has such areas within its own continent, but some in New Guinea and elsewhere that can use such assistance. The United Kingdom is attempting programs like Mr. Truman proposed in several parts of Africa.

Long Asia Visit Planned

Most of Dodd's three months' trip will be spent in Asia. He will arrive as Karachi, Pakistan, February 9. On March 7 he will open the International Rice Commission in Bangkok. On March 24 he will open the first organizational meeting of the FAO-sponsored Indo-Pacific Fisheries Council in Singapore. He also hopes to attend the International Forestry and Timber Utilization Conference for Asia and the Pacific to start at Mysore, India, March 28.

While in Bangkok, Dodd will consult with William H. Cummings, FAO regional representative for Asia and the Far East, on plans for the newly established office there to serve the Far East.

In London, Lisbon, Madrid, Rome, Athens, Istanbul, and Ankara, Dodd will give particular attention to (1) restoration of the livestock industry in war-devastated lands, (2) reestablishment of trade between eastern and western Europe, and (3) increased output of forest products.

At Cairo he will confer with FAO Representative M. T. Hefnawy Pasha and government officials from FAO member countries in the Near East on problems of irrigation and drainage, insect control, improved seeds, and more adequate supplies of fertilizers and other agricultural requisites.

In the Far East his attention will center on the principal agricultural problem in that great area—increased production within the region itself to overcome its chronic food shortage.

Dodd will meet with the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East, which is working jointly with FAO in discovering and reporting on the need for agricultural aid.

Meeting Fit Pattern

Problems Dodd expects to discuss with Government officials on all points include means for financing projects, control of animal disease, improved transport and betterment of the nutritive value of rice and rice diets.

All meetings that have been arranged for the FAO chief deal with matters that would fit into a program such as Mr. Truman proposed Thursday.

Further, at the recent FAO conference, several American speakers—officials in the Administration—discussed the benefits that might result in extending the Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service, that has proved so successful an agricultural educational medium between the Federal Department and the States—to foreign countries.

It was proposed that experienced extension workers be sent abroad to help set up similar agencies in foreign countries. Modern methods and the adoption of improved insecticides, fertilizers, land-use practices and soil and moisture conservation measure would result in vastly increased yields in many areas not now self-sufficient in food production, experts declare.

President Truman's recommendations fit in perfectly with many of the FAO programs developed in recent years.

Final speaker at the afternoon session will be the Rev. Darby W. Betts, rector of St. Clement's Episcopal Church in Alexandria, who will talk on contemporary church president of the Washington Chapbuilt in modern style.

Speakers at the dinner meeting will be Slocum Kingsbury, past president of the Washington chapter A. I. A. and John R. Scotford, a member of the Interdenominational Bureau of Architecture of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

In the evening three separate panels on different phases of church building have been planned. These group meetings will consider planning for worship, for religious education, and for social, recreational and community services.

D. C. Church To Mark 96th Anniversary

Dr. Earl Franklin Fowler, pastor, will conduct services marking the ninety-sixth anniversary of the founding of Sixth Presbyterian Church, 16th and Kennedy sts. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday.

The pastor will speak on the theme "Building Wisely and Well" at the anniversary service. The following elders will be installed: Joseph Muir, Edward Magdeburger, Dr. Joseph S. Lawrence, C. Garton Swain, John Cabot White, and Clarence M. Yohn.

Sixth Presbyterian was organized on January 23, 1853 in Island Hall in the southwest part of Washington. The first church building was dedicated in 1855.

In 1916 the church moved to its present site, which at that time was the most northern church location, in the northwest section of Washington. The cornerstone of the original building was moved and relaid at the new site. That same year the chapel was completed and dedicated.

The present Gothic building was dedicated in 1930. Dr. Fowler is the thirteenth minister to serve the church.

First for Quality at Lowest Cost

SEE YOUR LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALER

CHEVROLET

is the only car bringing you all these fine-car advantages at lowest cost!

YOU'LL PREFER ITS "LUXURY LOOK"!

Chevrolet's new Leader-Line Styling is lower, wider, racier . . . with new Dyna-Cool radiator grille, Single-Sweep front and rear fender treatment, and fleet-as-a-rocket lines all around . . . by far the most beautiful development of the new "functional form" for motor cars.

MORE BEAUTIFUL FROM EVERY ANGLE!

The new Beauty-Leader Bodies by Fisher (with push-button door openers outside) are true masterpieces by the master builder of fine coachcraft . . . with superb lines, extra-fine upholstery and a wide variety of alluring colors . . . much more beautiful from every angle—inside and outside—front, side and rear.

MORE ROOM AT EVERY POINT!

The new Super-Size Interiors featuring extra-wide "Five-Foot Seats," give you plenty of head, leg and elbow-room as well as extraordinary seating space for six full-grown passengers; and you'll also notice that the giant rear decks have what amounts to "trunk room" capacity.

SEE ALL! ENJOY ALL!

New Panoramic Visibility, with wider curved windshield, thinner windshield pillars, and 30% more window area all-round, permits you to see all and enjoy all, and to travel in maximum safety.

THESE ARE CARS THAT "BREATHE"!

Yes, you'll enjoy the additional pleasure of riding in a "car that breathes," for a completely effective heating* and ventilating system supplies warm air to every nook and corner of the interior—exhales stale air—and keeps glass clear in all weather. *(Heater and defroster units optional at extra cost.)

THE NEW RIDE'S A REVELATION!

JUST COUNT THE COMFORTS!

Push-Button Starter for simplest, easiest starting; Hand-E-Gearshift with Synchro-Mesh Transmission for maximum shifting ease; and Firm Foundation Box-Girder Frame for ride-stability and road-steadiness unsurpassed in the Chevrolet price range.

STOP MORE SWIFTLY AND SAFELY!

The new Certi-Safe Hydraulic Brakes give even faster stops with safety . . . and assure the highest degree of effective braking action for you and your family.

YOU'LL SAVE MORE MONEY, TOO!

This new Chevrolet is designed, engineered and built to speed your pulse and spare your pocketbook, for it brings you all these and many other important improvements at the lowest prices and with extraordinary economy of operation and upkeep.

Plus NEW CENTER-POINT DESIGN!

A remarkable 4-way engineering advance exclusive to Chevrolet in its field, and consisting of Center-Point Steering—Center-Point Seating—Lower Center of Gravity and Center-Point Rear Suspension gives the new Chevrolet riding and driving results without precedent or parallel in low-cost motoring. That means a new kind of riding-ease and a new kind of driving-ease, heretofore reserved for owners of more expensive cars. Remember—only new Center-Point Design can give you all these finer motoring results; and only the new Chevrolet brings you Center-Point Design at lowest cost!

AMERICA'S CHOICE

One on the Aisle—

Comedy Can Age In a Dozen Years

By Richard L. Coe

"THAT WONDERFUL URGE," the Capitol's half-baked comedy with Tyrone Power and Gene Tierney, is one more illustration of Hollywood's need for imaginative writers.

The Warner's "John Loves Mary," the National's "Mourning Becomes Electra," the Little's "Hamlet" and Keith's "Joan of Arc" were inspired by plays. The Palace's "The Snake Pit" and the Trans-Lux "Enchantment" come from popular books.

Like several other films this season, "That Wonderful Urge" is a remake of a former screen success, "Love Is News," which starred Power and Loretta Young in 1937. It seems to me that this tendency, particularly in remakes, verges on anxiety, to put it mildly.

For what may once have been funny—the spectacle of an heiress telling the world she's married to a reporter who's been writing bitter denunciations about her—sounds like a faded old record. And since the essence of comedy and farce is to keep you from asking awkward questions ("Prove it," to her claim), it's rather nagging to assume throughout the film that no one, reporters, lawyers, et al. bothers to check the leading lady's facts.

Had scriptwriter Jay Dratler been more inspired and were Power and Miss Tierney as amusing as they are decorative, perhaps this sense of frustration wouldn't nag one so during the film. I'm not saying that the romance of the world's richest girl and the earth's handsomest reporter mightn't be fun; but in the case of "That Wonderful Urge" it isn't.

There's a fine list of names in the supporting cast, but most of the time the camera's occupied with the two stars. But, even though you missed "Love Is News," you can't help feeling you've seen all this before. Let's give the script writers a chance to show us what they can dream up on their own.

Sibyl Bowan on Stage

The Capitol's stage bill is considerably more inspired than the picture. Though there are only four acts, they're the best of their kinds.

Always a merry, uninhibited soul, Sibyl Bowan is back with her assortment of detailed impressions, one of a plethora of mimics, but still the queen of the lot. Miss Bowan's put her famed Mrs. Roosevelt back in her act as an encore, a sharp, amusing impression that inspires affectionate laughter.

Hal Leroy shares top position with his skilled taps; taller, thinner, Hal seems, but still as boyishly bemused by his clever steps as ever.

The facile adagio team of Martells and Magnon open the bill effectively and the Three Swifts, always an ably comic duo, close the show in a burst of applause.

Yes, the cheerful Kay DeWitt is back with Sam Jack Kaufman's band in the pit.

MISS BOWAN, by the way, is sticking by her comic guns despite the extremely painful experience of falling nearly 12 feet to the cement from a ladder during Thursday's parade . . . Knocked out cold for several minutes, Miss Bowan says she owes a lot to alert Sergeant Cozy of the Second Rescue Squad . . . For the first time in her life Miss Bowan missed one show of the day's six, but, still groggy, she was back to her comedy for the last three of the day . . . Bruises but no broken bones are the outcome and if you found a pair of bifocal glasses in a red case from A. Soloder's New York emporium, Miss Bowan will hug you for them . . . "That's what comes when a Republican waves to a Democrat," the star told her audience, waving a bandaged arm, nodding an aching pate.

SAM JACK KAUFMAN, too, is back at the Capitol, after his demanding chores as conductor for the Inaugural Gala . . . This is a good place to congratulate the band leader on his skill in keeping six orchestras (four service bands, the National Symphony and the pit orchestra) together for the Gala's finest moment, a really stirring finale of the National Anthem . . . This was a truly moving windup for a bill that suffered from the makeshift, echoing, Armory setting . . . One certainly felt for the entertainers who had to reach an audience seated in camp chairs on a dead level . . . The evening emphasized how badly this world capital needs a suitable auditorium.

THE MARCH OF DIMES now takes over the energies of the city's charity-minded . . . There is to be a special, one-performance-only showing of Pierre Fresnay in "Monsieur Vincent," a highly-praised French film about Vincent de Paul . . . The film will be shown on Franklin Roosevelt's birthday, Sunday night the 30th . . . Mrs. Frances Nash Watson is active chairman of the committee, honoring the man who attended so many of her concerts while he was in the White House . . . Next at the Playhouse, where "Louisiana Story" completes its run Tuesday, will be "Mr. Perrin and Mr. Traill," an English film about school life, with David Farrar . . . "Dead of Night," best of the supernatural films, will be shown tonight at 8:30 at International Student House, 1825 R st. . . . "The Overlanders," that Australian precursor of "Red River," joins "The Brothers" today at the Hippodrome to complete the month-long British film festival . . . Inauguration newsreels went into the Trans-Lux early last night.

Negro Tenant Asks Guard in Cross Burning

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21 (AP).—A school teacher who recently became the only Negro tenant in a block of houses here has appealed for police protection after the burning of a cross in his front yard last night.

The teacher is J. M. Sweat, member of the faculty of George Mason School, who lives at 2700 Barton ave.

Sweat said he and his wife, a student at Virginia Union University, were upstairs in their house last night and knew nothing of the cross-burning until a neighbor rang their doorbell.

Sweat described the cross as about 5 feet high, covered with burlap rags soaked in oil.

"I knew such things happened during the last century," Mrs. Sweat said, "but I didn't know there were any Ku Klux Klaners in Richmond now. It looks like a KKK act."

She said she had no idea who could have been responsible.

Sweat extinguished the cross' flames and reported the incident. Second District police officers have instructed patrolmen in the area to pay special attention to activities in the block.

It was reported other houses now occupied by whites in the block have been purchased by Negroes who expect to move in soon.

Capital Store Sales Up 13% During Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

Continued markdown sales in the week ended January 15 boosted Washington department store volume 13 per cent above the same 1948 week.

For the four weeks ended January 15, local volume was 20 per cent ahead of the like 1948 period, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported last night.

Gains of a lesser extent were registered in the Fifth Federal Reserve District, where dollar volume for the week was up 8 per cent and for the four-week period up 10 per cent.

Dun & Bradstreet in its weekly report noted that selectivity continued to characterize the shopping habits of most consumers, adding "special promotions were generally well received."

Unseasonably warm weather tended to decrease purchases of heavy clothing, the research agency declared, and "promotions of men's wear became more widespread."

Spokesmen for retailers, fairly oozing confidence, predict that by Easter their sales volume will have topped last year's by 5 to 10 per cent. Some think the price of an Easter outfit will be less than last year. Merchants are counting on personal income remaining high. They say that now that their customers have returned to "normal buying patterns," stores will have to work harder to sell them, but that the money is still there.

ODD LOTS: An economic cycle in which both prices and profits will be reduced is predicted by Robert G. Dunlop, president of the Sun Oil Co. . . . The Nation's fire loss in 1948 totaled $711,114,000, highest in history, acording to the National Board of Fire Underwriters . . . Federal Credit Curb Relaxation Proposed

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—The National Electrical Wholesalers Association today proposed relaxation of Federal consumer credit curbs.

The executive committe of the association in a telegram to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System asked for modification of "Regulation W" to permit smalled down payments and an extention of the payment terms on radio, television and electrical appliances.

The 40-year-old association has 900 members.

All-America Will Operate Seven-Club League

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

YOU'D HAVE to say the All-America Conference executed a neat maneuver at the Battle of Chicago and wriggled nicely off the hok that was baited by the National Football League.

POVICH

By merging its New York and Brooklyn clubs, the AAC solidified its forces, quit retreating, and put the onus directly on the National Football League, which was fondly envisioning the collapse of its younger rival.

It was an unexpected bit of strategy that now finds the NFL facing stiffened resistance after its attempt to lure the San Francisco and Cleveland clubs away from the Conference and into a new, bigger National League.

Certainly it wasn't the surrender the NFL had hoped for, and with the flat declaration of the AAC clubs that they are in business to stay, the war is on again and perhaps no longer in its cold phase.

The Conference is going ahead as a seven-club circuit, but a definite advantage now appears to lie with the new league.

BY MERGING the Brooklyn club with the Yankees, the Conference eliminated one of its weak spots with the Chicago Rockets, now the only eyesore in the AAC. Even so, Ben Lindheimer, financial angel of the Conference, is declaring that the Rockets have a new $300,000 fighting fund with which to stay in business, and it may not be all bluster.

But it is the revamped picture of pro football in New York that is most intriguing. At first glance it appears to have been a shrewd move that the AAC took in merging its Yankee-Brooklyn clubs. It means, most importantly, that Dan Topping didn't let the Conference down and that he didn't succumb to the lure of the NFL's attempts to hire his Yankee Sadium for its homeless Boston Yanks.

Without a New York outlet, the AAC couldn't hope to claim major league status, but now it appears that the younger league holds the strongest hand in New York. And the merger of the two clubs makes available a surplus of players with which to strengthen the Rockets and other weak clubs to provide a more balanced race.

THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE'S position in New York is not a pretty one. Tim Mara's Giants, far down in the race, lost so much money last season that they are leasing half their rights to the Polo Grounds to the Boston Yanks. A nice cash payment to the Giants by the Yankees for the privilege of moving into the Polo Grounds will be forthcoming, it develops, but that fact only points up the plight of the Giants.

Tim Mara ordinarily isn't inviting any club to share his New York dates, but apparently he finds the cash to offset recent losses too tempting. One of the reasons that Dan Topping jumped the NFL with his Brooklyn franchise a few years back was Mara's stubbornness in giving Topping a better deal on dates. But those were the days when the Giants were making money, and hautier about the whole business.

The Polo Grounds crowds didn't support the Giants with much eagerness last season, and now Mara is splitting his meager patronage with the replanted Yank team of Ted Collins. They never were a drawing card, and the new Polo Grounds arrangement poses no threat to the All-America's position in New York. The AAC could emerge as the top league in New York.

IN LIFTING its guarantees to the visiting clubs from $15,000 to $20,000, the National League took a strange step, anyway. There were already clubs in the league that were having difficulty paying even the $15,000 guarantee and it poses a new hardship on those clubs. The bigger guarantee is wonderful for the richer teams, however. They got more dough than ever away from home, and the poorer clubs don't profit by the bigger guarantees on the road because their option of taking a percentage of the gate usually netted more than $20,000 anyway.

The more prosperous clubs appear to be playing the weaker clubs for suckers in raising the guarantee figure to a sum that makes it painful for the poorer teams to pay off.

It may be a foolhardy business in which the AAC is engaging by staying in pro football, with the balance sheets showing that only one club in its league, only two clubs in the NFL, showed a profit last season. But there must be some admiration for the gutty effort of the AAC to stay alive.

DEAD HEAT AT HIALEAH—This official photo shows Maudeaux (No. 7) and Bright Kid (No. 4, on rail) as they came to the wire all even in last Thursday's turf course race. Fuglers (No. 6) was third and Play Sure (No. 1) was fourth

Done With Mirror, Fans Are Satisfied

Photo finishes of horse races, once a sore spot with the mutuel-minded customers, have come to be accepted without question.

Time was when turf fans would bet their very lives that cameras—all makes and at all tracks—favored the outside or "closest to the camera" horse.

Despite the fact that the Bureau of Standards, called into the controversy, proved with stationary blocks placed on a minature finish line that objects photographed evenly despite their distance from a camera almost above them, the word war went on.

The photography people, who make a comfortable living out of determining horse finishes, set about removing all doubt of the fans. After many experiments, they finally hit upon a mirror as the answer.

This photo was made with the Jones Precision Camera, claimed by its inventors and handlers as the last word in judging finishes.

The camera is shutterless, the negative sliding across a long, thin slot focused on the line. With this method it is possible to photograph only moving objects. The first action to reach the range of the focus is the tip of [illegible]'s nose. As the horses pass through the lens area the negative moves with them, taking in their entire bodies.

In addition to revealing inside and outside photos, the mirror method is used by judges to determine the order in rare cases when one horse is hidden by another in the outside or actual photo.

Brooklyn, N. Y. Merge, Rockets Get New Cash

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Chicago, Jan. 21.—The All-America Conference, in a surprise action today, merged its New York and Brooklyn clubs and signaled a renewal of its war with the National Football League for pro football's customers.

Apparently done with peace overtures to the older NFL, the conference announced it would operate independently again next season, with its circuit reduced from eight to seven clubs.

Coincident with the announcement of the New York-Brooklyn merger, Conference spokesman Ben Lindheimer declared the suffering Chicago Rockets would be given new and solid financial backing to the extent of $300,000.

Thus peace in the cold war between the two leagues appeared as distant as ever today. Magnates of the two circuits were in session in Chicago hotels separated only by the width of a city street, but it might as well have been a continent for all the unity their efforts achieved.

Under the new New York-Brooklyn setup, the Yankee Stadium entry will be owned jointly by the Yankee and Brooklyn baseball clubs under the direction of their presidents, Dan Topping and Branch Rickey. The team will take a lease on Yankee Stadium. Red Strader, coach of the Yankees, will head up the Yankee-Dodger coaching staff, with Carl Voyles, Brooklyn head coach, as one of his assistants.

With Lindheimer in charge of the press meeting, and while Commissioner Jonas Ingram paced the floor, most of the talking was done by Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

Brown Is Confident

"We feel that we are more solid than ever," Brown said.

He did not know, however, whether the league would have Eastern and Western divisions. He thought a 12-game schedule would be worked out. He said that the A. A. C. was only interested in doing "the best thing for ourselves and for pro football as a whole."

Ingram, reaffirming his desire to retire as commissioner, caused the day's only ray of hope for peace between the warring circuits.

"I don't know what will happen in the next two or three days," the retired admiral said, "but my one desire is for a working agreement between the leagues. However, I would not remain as commissioner for another year under any conditions."

The Chicago Rockets, weakest link in the A. A. C., have acquired a new $300,000 bankroll, it was announced, and the management has been materially changed. Otherwise the league will operate with the Los Angeles Dons, San Francisco '49'ers Cleveland Browns, Baltimore Colts, Buffalo Bills, and the merged Yankee and Dodger team.

Yorks Play at Polo Grounds

Across the street the N.F.L., apparently awaiting peace feelers from the A.A.C., made only one important decision on its final session. That, by unanimous vote, Ted Collins was granted a new franchise to replace his Boston Yank franchise, this one to be

Margarita's Offense Will Fit Material

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Bob Margarita, Georgetown's new head football coach, admitted yesterday that he has a man-sized job ahead of him with one important phase of it making him an avid movie fan.

Margarita, at 28, one of the youngest in the business at a major school, has a little more than a month to line up a staff of capable assistants, start planning on the type offense he thinks will click and find housing for his wife, Miriam, and 2-year-old son, James Francis.

Then there's the little matter of assaying his football talent on the veteran squad that will be shy only seven men. That's when Margarita will become a cinema addict.

"I'm going to lock myself in the projection room and study Georgetown game movies until I think I have some of the answers," the New Englander said.

Margarita arrived here yesterday morning little more than an hour before Georgetown officially announced that he was to succeed veteran Jack Hagerty who became director of athletics Tuesday.

Questions about Margarita's salary and the length of his contract were dismissed politely at a formal press conference. Hagerty and Father Robert Parsons, faculty director of athletics, contented themselves with remarks that they were "pleased and happy" to have Margarita.

The former Yale backfield coach did indicate that his term will be longer than one year. "In this complex business, I don't think a coach necessarily can prove his ability in one year," he informed.

Reportedly, Margarita received $7500 at Yale when he took the New Haven job after being backfield coach at Georgetown for only eight days last spring. A good guess is that he will sign for three years at a figure in the neighborhood of $8500.

Margarita's first big task will be to sign three fulltime assistants. He has been empowered to bring in his own men.

"The offense we use will de-

Catholic Beats Hopkins, 45-41

With Jim Losty and Bill O'Connell dropping the decisive field goals, Catholic U. defeated Johns Hopkins, 45-41, in a Mason-Dixon Conference game at Brookland last night.

The rangier visitors forged in front during the first half but it ended 21-21 after intermission. Hopkins again tied the score at 27, but never could get the lead again.

Little Bill Sondericker, who wound up high man with 13 points, dumped two quick baskets to put the Cardinals ahead for good.

A last-minute effort by Hopkins brought it within two points, but the goals by Losty and O'Donnell gave Catholic its 10th win in 12 games.

CU now has a 7—2 conference record and Johns Hopkins is 0—2. Newt Margolis led the losers with 11 points.

In the preliminary, Stan Berkman's 18-point total sparked Johns Hopkins' Jayvees to a 49—42 victory over Catholic's Jayvees.

Davidson Will Open With Army

Davidson, N. C., Jan. 21 (U.P.)—The Davidson College football team will oppose Army at West Point, N. Y., Sept. 24, it was announced tonight at M. W. Sheppard, head football coach at Davidson.

It will be the opening game of the 1949 season for both teams. Davidson last met the Cadets on the football field in the early 1930's.

Mont May Get Job

Meade Quits Terps for Furman; Rowland Mentioned for Vandy

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Although the spotlight was on Georgetown, which officially unveiled Bob Margarita as its new man, two other area college coaches figured in the football news today.

At Maryland, Jim Meade, assistant backfield coach for his alma mater for two years, quit to become head backfield coach at Furman University.

Meade received a "substantial" financial boost to join the staff of the Greenville, S. C., Southern Conference school. There, the 35-year-old former All-Southern halfback will find an old friend in Bill Young, Furman line coach. They played together for the Washington Redskins in 1939 and 1940.

Jim Tatum, Maryland athletic director, said he was sorry to lose Meade, but was happy that Meade had been able to better himself.

Tommy Mont, former Maryland quarterback now understanding Sammy Baugh on the Redskins, is one of three persons Tatum is known to be considering to succeed Meade, who leaves February 1. The others are Bill Meek, Maryland head freshman coach, and Warren Giese, assistant Terp frosh coach, who played under Tatum at Oklahoma.

If Meek is elevated to the varsity, Giese will probably become head frosh mentor.

Down at Nashville, Tenn., several Vanderbilt friends of Rowland put forth his name as successor to Sanders. Rowland, who climaxed his first season at George Washington by directing the Colonials to their first victory over Georgetown in 51 years, was graduated from the Vandy law school in 1924.

Fred Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner and a classmate of Rowland's, said last night "Bo will get strong support down here when the athletic committee knuckles down to the task."

Russell, who has covered Vanderbilt's football fortunes for years, is closer to the Vandy scene than perhaps anyone except the school president.

When informed that Rowland was being considered for the Vandy job, Max Farrington, GW athletic director, said: "It's news to me. Bo is on vacation, but I'm sure that if anything develops, he'll get in touch with me."

Lions Lose To Philly, 5-3

Despite the presence of three new skaters in their line-up, it was the same old story for the Washington hockey Lions last night—defeat.

The latest reversal—a 5-3 job administered by the Philadelphia Rockets—was the eighth straight the local entry in the American Hockey League suffered and made their cellar position even more secure. They're now two full games behind the Rockets, who scored their fourth in a row over the hapless Uline sextet.

The Lions jumped into a 2-1 first-period lead and the crowd of 1416 thought for a moment the tide had finally changed. The second period proved them wrong and the third period was even worse. The Rockets banged across two goals in the second period and added two more for good measure in the final 20-minute quarter in dealing Washington its thirty-first loss of the season.

Ab DeMarco, Augie Herchanratter and Bryan Hextall, three of the five players the Lions obtained in an eight-player deal with the Cleveland Barons, made their Washington debut.

DeMarco, with an assist by Hextal slapped in a goal for the Lions in the first period, but Herchanratter was scoreless for the night.

Patty Berg Has Record 68

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP).—Patty Berg smashed through the well-trapped Palma Ceia course here today with a record-shattering 68 and a 4-stroke lead at the halfway point in the Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The Minneapolis pro was 2 under men's par for today's 18 holes and pared 5 strokes off the best previous women's competitive round.

Driving well and putting accurately, she was out in 34 and back in the same figures, 1 under par each way for the 6093-yard layout Her first day's 77 held her to 145 for the 36 holes.

In second place was Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, with 74-75—149. She was the only amateur in the first five.

Louise Suggs of Carrollton, Ga., was another stroke back with 150, after a 76 today. She, Miss Kirk and Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., had shared the lead at 74 yesterday.

Mrs. Babe Zaharias of Ferndale, N. Y., equaled her old women's competitive record for the course with a 73. She moved up to fourth place with 151, after trailing badly yesterday on a 78.

Cerdan 'Wins' By Default

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP).—Boxer Marcel Cerdan won his latest bout by default tonight. Brunette Simone Berteaut failed to press her charges that the middleweight champ had used her as an unwilling sparring partner in chanteuse Edith Piaf's New York apartment last November.

Miss Berteaut had charged that the fighter and La Piaf had beat her up and kept her prisoner for five days in the singer's flat in Park Avenue, New York. She said the reason was to keep her from talking about the singer's friendship with Cerdan, who is married and the father of three children.

Stags Down Celtics, 86-76

Boston, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Chicago Stags of the Basketball Association of America staved off a spirited late game rally by the Boston Celtics tonight to rack up an 86-76 victory before 4095 fans.

The loss was the Celtics' eighth consecutive defeat and the fourth straight they have lost to Chicago.

The surging Celtics came within four points of the front-running Stags with only 90 seconds to go. However, Max ZZaslofsky tossed in a couple of free throws and Eddie Mikan clicked with two field goals to end the threat.

Caps Oppose Celts Tonight

The Washington Capitols, coasting toward the Eastern Division championship meet the Boston Celtics at 8:45 tonight in a Basketball Association of America game at Uline Arena.

The locals have inflicted "Capitol punishment" on the Celts four times already, but should have more than the usual amount of trouble running their interclub winning streak to five.

Since their last meeting with the Caps, Celts' Coach Alvin (Doggy) Julian has obtained George Nostrand, the towering young center from Providence in exchange for Chuck Halbert and Mel Riebe.

Nostrand will team with Gene Stump, former DePaul University star, who is leading the Celts' scorers with an average of 11.3 points per game, Eddie Ehlers, Jim Seminoff, Bob Doll, Art Spector, Tom Kelly, John Bach, Stan Noszkam, Bill Roberts and John Hazen.

Four Washingtonians have a better than 10 points per game average. They are Bob Feerick, 13.1, Bones McKinney, 12.8, Kleggie Hermsen, 11.7, and Freddie Scolari, 11.2.

Has Lions' Trouble—Financial

Philly Hockey Team Also May Quit American League

Mike Uline of the Washington Lions isn't the only American Hockey League club owner having trouble making financial ends meet.

President Peter Tyrell of the Philadelphia Rockets, admitted yesterday that his team might withdraw from the league as the result of losses. But he said that first he would investigate the possibility of becoming a major league farm.

"We would like a National Hockey League team to over the Rockets as a farm, and rent the Philadelphia arena as its playing site," said Tyrell, whose Rockets played the Lions here last night.

The Rockets have been at the bottom of the AHL for several seasons and Tyrell feels that as a farm for a National League team the club would benefit with more talent.

Uline said Thursday that this may be the last year in the league for his team.

Uline said the league is "too scattered out" and that nobody can make money under present conditions except maybe one or two of the clubs.

The Washington owner said this year's deficit is about $60,000. He added that Washington will play hockey but possibly not in the AHL.

Surgeon Cheers 'The Whip'

Blackie's Kidney Removed, Should Be 'Better Than Ever'

Glendale, Calif., Jan. 21 (U.P.). The doctor who removed Ewell Blackwell's ailing kidney said today the Cincinnati pitcher should be "better than ever" next season.

Dr. C. Leroy Turner said Blackwell "responded beautifully" to the operation last night and will be able to report to spring training in about six weeks.

"We'll have him out of bed in a day or two, and out of the hospital in a week," Dr. Turner declared. "Although an operation of this type is pretty painful for a while, there is no reason for it to interfere with Ewell's pitching."

The doctor thought there was a definite possibility that some of the lanky pitcher's arm trouble last season could be traced to the diseased right kidney.

After winning 22 games for the Reds in 1947, including 16 straight victories, the 6-foot 6-inch Blackwell won only 9 last year.

Some observers thought Blackwell was through. But the 26-year-old right-hander, whose fast delivery had earned him the title of "The Whip," said he would be all right as soon as he got rid of three bad teeth. He thought they were what made his arm sore and interfered with his delivery.

He had the teeth out and thought he had recovered his old form.

"Then I pitched on a cold, windy day and my arm went bad again," Blackwell recalled.

After heat, X-ay and other therapy treatments failed to bring relief, doctors decided to remove the kidney.

Richards' Foul Shot Wins Game

Montgomery-Blair's twice-beaten Blazers put an end to unbeaten Bethesda-Chevy Chase's 10-game winning streak last night, the Blazers nosing out the Barons, 28-27 at College Park.

More than 3500 fans braved the rain to watch the Montgomery County rivals meet, and Chuck Richards gave them something to yell about when, with 13 seconds left, he sank the foul goal which won for Blair.

Seconds later, the fans streamed onto the floor as a gun went off. It turned out that the gunshot had come from the student section, and that five seconds still remained. The floor was cleared of spectators, Bethesda won the center jump, and Fred Genau let go with a half-court attempt, which hit the rim, but bounced off, no good.

A deliberate defense duel set the stage for the dramatic climax. Bethesda ran up a 15-7 lead midway in the second quarter, but Blair caught fire to trail only 15-14 at intermission. Blair went in front, 24-21, going into the last period, and ran the margin to 26-21. However, Bethesda again began to hit and, with 20 seconds left, Genau sent a one-hand set shot to tie the score 27-27.

Willard Equals Record

Hoya Team, Mathis Win; Mitchell 3d in Philly Meet

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—Georgetown's one-mile relay team and Bill Mathias, unattached sprinter, were the only Washington, D. C., area representatives to score victories in the fifth annual Inquirer meet here tonight before 9400 spectators.

Mathias scampered home first in the special 50-yard sprint in 5.3, beating out Ed Conwell, Jersey City, last year's winner; Tom Carey, unattached, and Bennie Wright, of Chester High.

Mathis covered the distance in 5.4 in winning his prelimnary heat and his semifinal.

Georgetown's team of Vincent Cino, Mortimer Kane, Bob Spearman, and Ed Sause was clocked in 3.27.5 as it beat New York University and Villanova. Morgan State actually finished second but was disqualified.

Morgan State led most of the race, and it wasn't until Sause took the baton that Georgetown moved into any kind of a substantial lead. Kane had a short-lived advantage on his leg, but on the backstretch of his second lap, Sause spurted past Morgan State's anchor man to open a 10-yard gap at the finish.

Mitchell 3d Behind Dillard

In other mile relays, Howard's quartet of John Lassiter, Cliff Lee, Alonzo Williams and Louis Russell couldn't duplicate its 1948 triumph in the "B" relay. The Blue and White came home last in the race won by St. Francis of Brooklyn in 3:34.8.

Maryland trailed Manhattan by 15 yards in taking second in the "D" mile relay. The New York team won in 3:28, to whip Maryland's squad of George McGowan, Paul Ostrye, Mario Salvanelli and Ed Matthews.

Bill Mitchell of Georgetown, took third in the 50-yard high hurdles, trailing Harrison Dillard, Baldwin Wallace A. A. and Jim Gehrdes, Penn State, across the finish line. Dillard was timed in 6:1 equaling the American record for the distance. Ed Dugger of the Dayton A. C. was back of Mitchell.

Mitchell captured one of the four preliminary heats in 6.3 and was second to Dillard in his 6.1 semi-final. Karl Rubach, of Maryland, was back of Mitchell in the heat but failed to qualify in the semi-final.

Cardozo Team Second

Joe O'Steen and Bill Alexion, both of Maryland, and Joe Walker, Cardozo High, were eliminated in the heats of the 50-yard dash, while Pete Hambleton, Maryland, and James Rams, Georgetown, were far back in the 1000-yard handicap run. Another Maryland runner, Ed Matthews started on the pole in the 600-yard run but wound up last in a field of six.

Cardozo High's relay quartet of Russell Williams, Alphonsus Jones, Aloysius Jones and Joe Walker took second in the one-mile preparatory school relay.

Seton Hall won by 15 yards over Cardozo in 3:38.2. Seton Hall got out front at the start and slowly increased its lead throughout the race. Mercersburg was third, with Howard last.

Earlier in the day Cardozo had finished second to Mercersburg in the qualifying event. Mercersburg was timed in 3:40.8 and Cardozo in 3:41.8.

Cardozo athletes snared a first and a second.

Alphonso Jones won the mile in 4:37.6, while Joe Walker took second in the 50-yard dash.

The mile was decided on time, with Jones posting the best time of the three heats. The other heat winners were Hugh Ward, Philadelphia's St. Thomas Moore, 5:08.2, and Bill Walton, Trenton, 4:43.

Jones was involved in a tense duel with West Philadelphia High's Don Bagby in his heat. The Washington youth finally blasted to victory on the backstretch after several other runners had taken turns in the lead spot.

Walker finished second to Bennie Wright of Chester (Pa.) High, who was timed in 5.4 to equal the Convention Hall school mark. Walker earlier had won his heat in 5.7 and came in second to Wright as he won the semifinal in 5.5.

Those in the crowd who came expected to see Bob Mathias, the 17-year-old Olympic decathlon champion from Tulare, Calif., were disappointed.

Mathias ran a good anchor leg for Kiski Prep of Saltsburg, Pa., in the prep school mile races preliminary this afternoon, but his team failed to reach tonight's final.

pend upon our evaluation of the material," he explained. Former Chicago Bear halfoack, he made the All-League team in 1945. Margarita leans toward the T-formation. Under Dick Harlow at Harvard, though, he taught the single-wing.

"We'll use whatever I think we're deepest for," Margarita said.

Margarita was an outstanding back at Brown University in 1941 and 1942 and one of the few Ivy Leaguers to garner all-pro honors. His coaching rise has been meteoric but Harvard's Harlow has a reputation for making head coaches. A few include Howie Odell, Yale and Washington; Ohio State's Wes Fesler and J. Neil (Skip) Stahley, GW mentor who went to Toledo last year.

Appointment Popular

Margarita's appointment was well received on the Georgetown campus. When he dropped in to the cafeteria, the students surprised him with a rousing "Hoya" yell. On the Hilltop, that's considered a tribute reserved for honor guests.

One thing's certain, the football players are well aware, that with Margarita, they'll be starting from scratch. Each player will have to prove himself to the new mentor.

Father Parsons, nettled by reports of deemphasis of Georgetown football, said, "Now we can get down to the business of fielding a football team capable of holding its own with any.

housed in New York's Polo Grounds.

Collins later said he had no name picked for the new club, but it definitely would not be called the "Yanks."

The A.C.C.'s decision to function on its own another year, instead of seeking N.F.L. membership for its two financially sound teams, at Cleveland and San Francisco, was met with surface approval by National League owners.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the National said, "I wish them luck." Washington Redskin President George Marshall had a slightly longer statement:

"If the All-America can succeed with seven teams it will help the National League. If it fails, only the seven teams will be hurt."

Several Questions Unanswered

Wild rumors of a get-together of the leagues during the last four days were thoroughly squelshed by Commissioner Bell.

"I have had no official, or unofficial, discussion of a peace plan with anyone," he said. "If anyone wants to talk to me about peace between the leagues it will have to be on the record."

The remark was as confusing as most everything else about Chicago's war of nerves. Questions left unanswered were as numerous as the hats blown into Chicago's streets.

Why did the A. A. C. move its meeting from New York to a hotel across the street from the N. F. L. meeting? What were A. A. C. owners talking about for four days, expecting to reach a momentous decision at any moment? Why did the N. F. L. continue its meeting an extra day, when it could have wound up business Thursday night? Those were just a few of the unsolved riddles.

11 Reds Subpena Ex-Jury Members

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Counsel for 11 top U. S. Communists today subpenaed members of the Federal grand jury which indicted their clients—to try to prove that New York's jury-picking system is discriminatory.

The subpenaing of the former grand jurors is part of the Communist counsel's plan to try to prove that the method of selecting jurors in the New York Federal district discriminates against the poor and in favor of the rich.

It is on this ground of discrimination that the defense is seeking to have the conspiracy indictment against the Communists and the panel of trial jurors thrown out.

The defense also had announced its intention to call all Federal judges here—including the trial judge himself—to testify about the jury system.

Judge Refuses Request

However, the trial judge, Harold R. Medina, informed the lawyers: "I simply will not testify. I have no intention of being disqualified by being called as a witness . . ."

"You have been trying to get me out of this case on various grounds and I see no merit in this ground. It is rather clear to me you want me out of this case."

Before subpenaing the former grand jurors, the defense started calling members of the trial jury panel to the witness stand.

Herbert Allen, an investment banker, was the first witness. The defense put questions to him intending to show his financial status.

Medina overruled many of the questions.

Harry Sacher, a defense lawyer, asserted that if questions could not be asked about the witness' economic holdings then the hearing "is just a sham designed to prevent proof that this system is just what we say it is."

Turns Laugh on Questioner

Allen drew a round of laughter when he replied to a question seeking to determine whether his name was on the alumni list of any college or university.

Turning to his questioner, Defense Attorney Richard J. Gladstein, Allen said:

"I have not had the advantage of an education such as you had. I had to work my way up."

Still to be acted upon is a prosecution motion that a defense attack on the method of picking the grand jury be thrown out.

Substantiation of the defense claim would void the indictment against the Communist leaders on the ground it was returned by a grand jury that excluded minority groups.

Get 50 Subpena Forms

The 11 Communists, all members of the American party's national committee, are charged specifically with working for the forcible overthrow of the Government.

The trial of William Z. Foster, head of the United States party and similarly charged, was severed from the others Tuesday because he is suffering from a heart ailment.

It was not determined how many pretrial witnesses the defense intends to call but they obtained 50 blank subpena forms last night from the court clerk for summoning witnesses.

After the issuance of the grand jury subpenas three more trial panel members were called by the defense and then Medina granted a request by Gladstein that the trial be adjourned until next Wednesday.

When George R. Ashley, vice president of a floor covering firm, was asked about his income, Medina told the defense counsel:

"My inclination at the moment is to permit questions as to below or over $5000. Where do you say I should draw the line?"

Defense Counsel Abraham J. Isserman replied:

"The dividing line you have suggested is an artificial one and not truly indicative. It is our contention that it is our right to fix the line. I am trying to establish the economic status of the individual—not to the last dollar but trying to fix it within a range."

Studebaker Plant Closes In Labor Row

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 21 (AP).—The Studebaker Corp. was closed by a labor dispute today for the first time since its employes were organized in 1933.

The dispute left 16,000 workers idle and halted production of 1000 cars and trucks a day. The executive board of Local 5, CIO United Auto Workers, called a mass meeting for 2 p. m. (CST) Sunday to consider a strike vote.

The union executive board said the union never has taken a strike vote at Studebaker. Previous disputes have been limited to brief unauthorized walkouts on a small scale, settled by the union's own disciplinary action.

Although the Taft-Hartley law requires a 60-day cooling-off period between a strike vote and the beginning of the strike, a spokesman for the local union said he did not know whether workers would return to their jobs after approving a strike. The spokesman asked that his name not be used.

The union executive board attributed the stoppage to a dispute over computing time on piece work in the seat manufacturing division. The board said that 43 men refused to work until the dispute was settled and that the company fired them.

Studebaker had been operating near peak capacity before the stoppage.

New Jersey Gas Union Pact Breaks Down

Camden, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP).—An agreement between the Public Service Gas & Electric Company and its 450 striking employes, permitting continued manufacture of gas for 100,000 domestic users, broke down today.

Representatives of the Camden Gas & Coke Workers Union, independent, charged the company volated its pact to stop all distribution to industrial users and called a halt to production for everybody.

A company spokesman said the union charge is without foundation. Some industrial plants still are getting gas, he said, but that is only because inspectors have not yet been able to reach them to shut off the supply.

Richard Cecich, union president, announced that union pickets no longer would allow one truck an hour to enter the company plant with coke used in the manufacture of gas.

The company spokesman said enough coke is on hand to keep up gas pressure to householders for several hours.

The strikers walked out at 8 a. m. yesterday, claiming the company failed to meet demands for a 30-cents-an-hour pay boost. They now draw $1.44 an hour plus 35 cents an hour additional on holidays. The company said it offered an 11-cent hike.

Clark Scores Reds as U. S. Job Holders

By The Associated Press

Attorney General Clark said yesterday that "we don't want even one Communist in Government service."

"Neither do we want them operating in our country outside the Government," he said.

Clark addressed the women's division of the Democratic National Committee.

Clark said the Communists and other subversive forces "seek to undermine our democratic institutions." He added:

"The Department of Justice is ever watchful of this potential danger threatening personal liberty and security of every American citizen as well as the safety of the Nation."

But he added that "the Department has not gone, nor will it go, on a 'witch hunt' against Communists.

Reviewing the Government's checking on the loyalty of its employes, Clark said it showed that the "great bulk of government employes are faithful to their Government." It has been necessary to dismiss only about 50 under the program, he told the women.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been able to stamp on the record of more than 99¾ per cent of the employe loyalty forms —'no disloyalty data found'," Clark said. 'This is a resounding answer to those who raise the hue and cry of wholesale infiltration into Government . . ."

2 Taken Alive From Air Crash

Anchorage, Alaska, Jan. 21 (AP).—Two men were found alive today in the crumpled wreckage of an Alaska Airlines DC-3 transport plane and rescue crews said a third might still be living.

Six persons were aboard the craft when it piled into a hillside on the Kenai Peninsula last night.

First reports from the rescue crews said all had perished. Then came word there were indications of life in the wreckage. Saws, crowbars and axes were rushed in so the rescuers could crack the wreckage.

Peter Palmero, 35, of San Francisco, and Roscoe Spears, Dillingham, Alaska, were brought out alive.

Others aboard were listed by Alaska Airlines as Capt. R. D. Land, Anchorage; Copilot Robert Stevens, Seattle; Stewardress Lucina Nims, Everson, Wash., and Stanley Hillman of Anchorage, one of the three passengers.

The search parties said they could find no trace of the stewardess. The report of a possible third survivor was not explained.

The airliner took off for Anchorage from Homer yesterday in clear weather. Searchers found it had smashed into a low hill with throttles open, and there was no immediate explanation for the crash.

The airline flies on a nonscheduled basis from Alaska to Seattle but is a scheduled carrier on runs within Alaska.

Gov. Warren Presents Billion Dollar Budget

Sacramento, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren today handed California legislators a billion-dollar annual budget—the largest ever presented to any State by any Governor.

His $1,060,187,939 "budget of necessities contains "no frills innovations or extravagances," the Governor said in presenting the bulky document. He pointed out about one third of the increases called for would go into education and social welfare.

escaped uninjured in the forced landing. But it also told of many cracks in the bay ice and open water between the plane and the shore.

The report ruled out a rescue by dog team or motorized sled. A 2000-foot strip of smooth ice a quarter-mile from the plane seemed sufficiently safe, the pilot said, to permit the landing of a ski-equipped single-engine aircraft. If that proved impossible, rescue by helicopter would be attempted. An RCAF helicopter is available at Rivers, Man., 664 miles from the scene.

Aboard the grounded plane are eight RCAF men, a doctor of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, an ill civilian radio operator and an Eskimo suffering from hernia. Their immediate condition seemed good. Sufficient medical and food supplies were on hand and "six people" had been seen walking around on the ice.

The plane took off last Monday for Arctic Bay, on Baffin Island 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle, to pick up Harold Dunn, transport department radio operator suffering from a stomach ailment.

The plane went off its course, ran out of gas, and was forced to land when on a 550-mile flight from Coral Harbor on Southampton Island to Churchill.

(Mattusch, 27, is the son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. Tomas Cajigas of 4605 Charleston terr. nw., Washington. His bride established a home at Brandon, Manitoba, near the RCAF base.)

Court States Legal Basis For Charter Council Vote

Opinion Formalizes Dec. 16 Decision, Answers Arguments Of Commissioners

Since Montgomery voters had legal authority to select a council-manager charter government, they had an implied right to specify the time and manner in which terms of the charter should be carried out.

This explanation was given by the Maryland Court of Appeals yesterday in an opinion telling why it authorized the January 6 Montgomery County council election. The opinion formalized a decision handed down December 16, ending a suit brought by four county commissioners in an effort to enjoin the council election.

The county commissioners' case revolved around four contentions:

1. That there is no provision in the home-rule amendment of 1915 for a special election.

2. That the January 6 election would violate the State quadrennial election statute.

3. That the nomination and election of the county council, under the charter, was not on the same basis as for the House of Delegates as specified in the home-rule law.

4. That the county commissioners had been elected for four-year terms and that it would be unconstitutional to cut their terms in half.

Applies to General Elections

In answer, the Court of Appeals in its formal opinion said:

1. That "if the voters of the country have express powers to adopt a charter providing for an elective council . . . there can be no 'reasonable or fair doubt' but that they have implied power to carry out such authority by providing the means and conditions under which such election has been held."

2. That the Maryland requirewould violate the State quadrenfour years "was designed for, and its effect is limited to . . . general elections . . . It is not designed to require, nor does it prohibit" special elections.

3. That so far as the law providing that the county council be elected on the same basis as the General Assembly is concerned, there is no provision in General Assembly regulations for special elections to fill vacancies.

"Whatever may be the effect of the act upon future elections to fill the places of the members of the first county council after the expiration of their terms," said the court, "that act has no application to . . . the election of the first county councilmen."

Pay Question Not Considered

4. That, insofar as the cutting of the commissioners terms of office is concerned, "it need only be said that the commissioners hold office subject to the possibility that they may be ousted under provisions of the Home-Rule Amendment providing for the adoption of a charter."

The court went on to say that questions as to whether the offices of the commissioners continue and whether they are due salaries after establishments of the county council "are not now before us."

The opinion stated emphatically that the commissioners no longer have powers of government, and added: "To nullify (the charter's) provisions for two years because of an apparent inconsistency between charter provisions and constitutional provisions relating to other matters would be a grave step involving serious risks to the county."

Silver Spring Protests County Office Removal

Opposition to proposed transfer from Silver Spring to Rockville of numerous Montgomery County services was voiced yesterday by a Silver Spring Board of Trade officer.

Einar B. Christensen, president of the board, said the proposed governmental reorganization had "aroused much resentment among citizens and businessmen and removal of the services represents a retrogression to the horse-and-buggy age."

Christensen spoke over Radio Station WGAY. He said he felt "the need for maintenance of existing facilities greatly exceeds the picayune savings that would result" from transfer to the county seat.

Husband Fined

Spree Revives Charge Held For 8 Months

A charge almost nine months old caught up with Bernard C. Snellings, 37, of 4637 Hilltop Terrace se., in Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge John P. McMahon ordered him to pay a $15 fine or spend 15 days in jail for being drunk in his house April 27, 1948.

According to police, this is what happened:

Last April 27, his wife, Ellen, returned home. He was in the house drunk and wouldn't let her in. She finally got in when a neighbor broke open the front door. The next day she went to Municipal Court and obtained a warrant for his arrest on a charge of being drunk in the house.

Mrs. Snellings made arrangements for the warrant to be held up by police until she notified them again that her husband was drunk. She telephoned the Fourteenth Precinct Thursday night to report her husband had gone on an inaugural spree and asked police to serve the old warrant.

In finding Snellings guilty on the old charge (he was not charged for Thursday night's celebration), Judge McMahon remarked that it wasn't right that police had waited so long to serve the warrant.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King admitted this was an unusually long period to hold up service of a warrant but said the general practice of allowing wives to hold warrants in such cases is usually an effective restraint on bottle-loving husbands.

He pointed out that a warrant can be served anytime within three years after it is issued and is good indefinitely if the person named is a fugitive from the District.

Driver Blames Collision on Falling Asleep

A man who told police he had fallen asleep at the wheel was charged after a collision yesterday with failing to give full time and attention to operating his car.

He was identified by police as Leroy William Morrison, 36, a Treasury Department investigator. He posted $50 collateral which he elected to forfeit, police said.

Morrison's car, police said, collided about 3:30 a. m. at 27th st. and Pennsylvania ave. se. with another operated by Morris Brown, 42, of 1670 Fort Dupont st. se.

Brown was released after treatment at Casualty Hospital for possible fractured ribs. Samuel Marks, 1433 Meridian pl. nw., a passenger in Morrison's car, was treated at Casualty for possible fracture of his right ankle.

Later in the day a hit-and-run charge was lodged against Barney B. Breazeal, 42, 1511 Franklin st. ne., by Hyattsville police after his automobile allegedly sideswiped another vehicle and failed to stop.

Police said Breazeal, who also was charged with reckless driving, drunken driving, and having no registration card, sideswiped an Army truck about 2 a. m. yesterday on the Washington-Baltimore blvd. in Hyattsville. He was arrested soon after in Mount Rainier. No injuries resulted from the collision, police said.

Breazeal was released in $1300 bond. A hearing has been scheduled for 10 a. m. Thursday in Hyattsville Police Court.

Maidie Payton, 64, 4400 E st. se., was in critical condition at Freedmen's Hospital yesterday after she was struck by a car at 6th and O sts. nw. Thursday night.

She was treated for head injuries and a compound fracture of the leg.

Police said the car which struck her was operated by David Pitts, 26, of 2202 Georgia ave. nw., who was charged with failure to yield the right of way, having no District permit, and failure to exhibit a registration card.

Arlington Woman Hurt Day After Husband Dies

An Arlington woman who, police said, walked into the side of a moving auto a day after her husband's sudden death was reported in good condition at Arlington Hospital yesterday with cuts and bruises.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Maude Gillin, 74, of 223 N. Glebe rd., had walked into the side of an auto driven by Clair O. Ducker, 35, of 718 Jackson ave., Falls Church on Thursday at the corner of Piedmont st. and N. Pershing dr., Arlington.

Her husband, Edward A. Gillin, died suddenly Wednesday at the Gillin home. Private services for him will be held Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Fitzgerald Funeral Home, 3245 Wilson blvd., Arlington, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

4 Killed, 2 Hurt Near Shenandoah

Father Saves Sons in Fire, Dies of Burns

Landover Hills Man Carries 2 to Safety; Wife, Brother-in-Law Escape Unscathed

A Landover Hills, Md., father saved his two young sons from a blaze that destroyed the interior of their home at about 8:30 a. m. yesterday but suffered fatal burns himself.

Hamer

The father, John Hamer, 36, civilian Army engineer, died of third degree burns at 8:15 p. m. in Prince Georges General Hospital. His sons, Allen, 7, and David, 4, who suffered serious burns to the face, were reported in fair condition.

According to firemen, the fire started in a living room couch at the two-story Hamer residence 4120 Fairfax ave., while Hamer and his wife and her brother-in-law, R. C. Blair, were asleep upstairs. The two children were awake and in the living room at the time, it was reported.

Mrs. Hamer, who with Blair escaped injury, awoke to smell smoke through the house. Her screams, firemen said, sent the pajama-clad men downstairs, where they spotted the burning couch.

According to Lieut. R. J. Smith, of the West Lanham Hills fire department, Hamer lifted a smoldering cushion from the couch and carried it into the kitchen. As he did, it fell apart and burst into flame, spreading the blaze and burning Hamer seriously.

Hamer, a volunteer member of the Landover Hills Fire Department, raced upstairs for the boys, where they had wandered seeking safety. He whisked them through the rear door and collapsed, his pajamas burned from his body.

The alarm was turned in by Volunteer Fireman Earl McGrew, a neighbor at 4111 Fairfax ave. Lieutenant Smith put the damage at about $5000.

Jewish Group Asks Citizen Support For SOS Campaign

Support of every citizen of Washington was asked yesterday for an SOS (Supplies for Overseas Survivors) lifeline campaign for 200,000 pounds of canned foods, layettes and layette items to speed to the recovery of Europe's Jews.

Mrs. Nat H. Levy and Milton W. King will spearhead the drive to speed the supplies overseas within 30 days, Hymen Goldman, president of the Jewish Community Council, announced. The Joint Distribution Committee will deliver the supplies to needy Jews in 14 European countries and in displaced person camps in Germany, Austria, Italy and Cyprus.

A citywide, house-to-house canvass of the Jewish community for canned foods and layette items will be held Sunday, January 30. A special trades and industry committee will ask local dealers for bulk contributions of canned foods, new clothing and other relief articles, and organizations will sponsor layette sewing projects.

D. C., Nation's Fire Losses Rise in 1948

U. S. Figure Gains 2.7% as Local Total Increases by 24.5%

The District's and the Nation's losses from fire both mounted in 1948, it was disclosed yesterday.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York, placed the countrywide fire loss in 1948 at $711,114,000, an $18,479,000, or 2.7 per cent increase over the 1947 figure, $692,635,000, and said it was an all-time high.

Fire Marshal Raymond C. Roberts said the District's loss for the 1948 calendar year was $1,829,375, an increase of $359,294, or 24.5 per cent over the 1947 figure, $1,470,080.

Figure Fluctuates

Though the District's 1948 loss by fire is the highest in recent years, the annual figure fluctuates considerably.

A peak was reached in the fiscal year 1923 when losses totaled $2,074,096, due largely to a fire at the Peoples Drug Co. warehouse at 1st st. and Florida ave. ne., on February 15, 1923; a $750,000 fire at Bolling Field on March 31, and two lumber yard fires, one on April 8, and the other April 22, 1923.

Increase in population, with a consequent increase in the human element, increase in the amount of property, and higher costs of labor and material, making replacements costs higher, account for the rise in fire losses, Fire Marshal Roberts said.

Replacement Cost Cited

"For example, in 1923 there was only 458,000 population here," he said, "compared with twice that today, and what you could buy in 1923 with two million dollars wouldn't go nearly so far today in terms of replacement costs."

Fire losses for the past 10 calendar years in the District, he said, were: 1939, $483,841; 1940, $708,775; 1941, $705,929; 1942, $1,014,585; 1943, $733,195; 1944, $849,055; 1945, $1,462,790; 1946, $1,668,550; 1947, $1,470,080, and 1948, $1,829,375.

Bandits Get $3100 And Lunch From Towson Workman

Towson, Md., Jan. 21 (AP).—Two gunmen held up an automobile assembly plant workman today and took $3100 it was his custom to carry on paydays to cash the checks of fellow employes.

Charles Whittington, jr., 35, told police two men approached him as he left his apartment in suburban Baltimore.

"No funny stuff," he quoted one of them. "We won't hurt you."

One of them pushed a pistol into Whittington's side and forced him into his car. Then they turned out his pockets and took several bundles of bills. They also walked off with his lunch.

2000 Honor Vice President At Kentucky Society Ball

By Nicha Soure
Post Reporter

In an atmosphere scented by gardenias, made plaintive by the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" and mellowed by mint juleps, fellow Kentuckians last night paid tribute to Vice President Barkley.

More than 2000 persons attended the Kentucky Society ball in Barkley's honor in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

President Truman, who apparently has discovered the secret of how to do without sleep, was there to pay his compliments to the Vice President, as were Mrs. Truman and Margaret.

Mr. Truman and his family arrived in the ballroom at about 10:30 p. m. and left shortly before 11 p. m.

Surveying the packed ballroom, the President remarked that he thought everybody west of the Mississippi had attended the Missouri State Society dance last Saturday and that it appeared everyone east of the Mississippi was present for the Kentucky dance.

In his tribute to Barkley, President Truman said he did not believe any President and Vice President in American history have been more congenial than he and Vice President Barkley.

Other notables who attended included Chief Justice of the United States Vinson, Gov. Earle Clements of Kentucky, former Postmaster General James J. Farley and Mrs. Max Truitt, daughter of the Vice President, who will serve as his official hostess.

As the notables entered the ballroom, they were serenaded by an accordion to the tune of "My Old Kentucky Home." Free gardenias were distributed to all guests.

The Vice President stood in the receiving line for a time, shaking hands of the guests as they arrived, then retired to the stage. He made a 15-minute informal, anecdotal talk.

Later, he sat with Chief Justice Vinson and Governor Clements in the same paddock, which is Kentucky parlance for table.

School Aide Fired After Check Charge

Arlington school officials yesterday abruptly terminated the services of the school system's arithmetic consultant after they said they had learned she had been charged with passing a bad $150 check in Washington.

The consultant was identified as Mrs. Mary M. Hughes, 57.

Superintendent of Schools Fletcher Kemp said Mrs. Hughes had been teaching at the McLean Elementary School before being hired in the consulting capacity on a part-time basis at a salary of $22 a day.

Mrs. Hughes' teaching plan is "very unusual," according to Miss Margaret Ludwig, director of elementary supervision, who said it had attracted national attention.

Last summer, officials said, she was invited to New York University to explain her audio-visual techniques in teaching arithmetic, by which she uses projected film strips to highlight and summarize her teaching and concrete objects such as apples or pencils to illustrate arithmetic problems.

Teachers Granted 5-Day Sick Leave At Baltimore

Baltimore, Jan. 21 (AP).—Baltimore City school teachers now are allowed five days sick leave a year without any loss in pay.

The program was approved yesterday by the city's board of school commissioners.

Previously, teachers absent because of illness were "docked" one-half of their pay for each working day missed. This money was used to pay substitute instructors.

A subdivision of the 1949 budget approved by the city council includes an appropriation for this purpose, a board member said.

Army Notifies 12 Families In Glen Haven Project to Move

Twelve families in the Glen Haven defense housing development on Georgia ave. extended received notices to vacate from the Army yesterday.

The notices were described officially as "terminations of tenancy" and specifically not evictions.

The families occupy 12 of the 70 units there, turned over to the Army Medical Center in August, 1947, by the Federal Housing Agency.

Termination of tenancy was decreed to make room by April 30, 1949, for married noncommissioned officers who work at Walter Reed Hospital.

The units are needed by the Army to make possible the housing of personnel whose duties are of an emergency nature. Such personnel working in operating rooms, critical wards, and with ambulances are now housed in "remote parts of the city," the Army said.

Present tenants were first asked to look for different quarters in January 1948 by the Army.

The average rent on the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom houses is $32.50, the Army said.

P. O. Denies Mail to Paper At Manassas

Col. Benjamin Muse, editor-publisher of the Manassas, Va., Messenger, said last night that the Manassas Postoffice had refused to accept the Friday issue of the semi-weekly paper.

Asked for details, Miss T. Hawes Davies, the postmistress, said "I can't say anything about it."

Muse said she took exception to an advertisement by a new restaurant offering free tickets for a free drawing for cash prizes and a subscription to the newspaper with one of the prizes.

"These kinds of advertisements are appearing in newspapers all the time," he said.

"She says she can't do anything about it until she gets an opinion from the Postmaster General," Muse said, "and we've missed our mailing, which is important to us."

New Television Channels Planned, FCC Head Says

New York, Jan. 21 (AP). — The Federal Communications Commission hopes to open up ultra high frequencies for new television stations before the end of 1949.

FCC Chairman Wayne Coy announced the plan today to 250 executives of radio and television stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System at a CBS "television clinic."

Coy said opening of additional television channels "offers the hope that many applicants (for stations) can start construction this year, especially in cities where no provisions have been made in the present band."

He added that sets can be built to receive both bands.

Coy said allocations within the present band, frozen by the FCC last September, would be resumed by April or may as planned.

Suit Protests Assessment In Bethesda

$537,690 Valuation Arrived at Illegally, Owners Complain

The owners of a Bethesda (Md.) land tract assessed at $537,690 filed suit in Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday attacking the legality of county assessing methods.

Among eight complaints listed in the suit were charges that the assessment was arrived at by an illegal mathematical formula, that the assessment supervisor failed to make a return on the levy before it went into effect and that Montgomery County commissioners failed to adopt a formal resolution placing the assessment on the tax books.

The suit also claimed the proposed assessment had not been advertised as required and that authorities had not conformed to a State law requiring establishment of five assessment districts and five classes of property for assessment purposes.

The suit claimed further that the present failure to assess all commercial and industrial property in the same year is "discriminatory."

Plaintiffs were listed as Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Miller, 5637 Western ave. Named as defendants were the Montgomery County Council, the successors to the county commissioners; Wilton T. Allen, county supervisor of assessments, and the Maryland State Tax Commission.

$3000 in Jewelry Boys Said to Have Stolen, Recovered

Washington police yesterday recovered $3000 worth of jewelry which three District teen-agers were reported to have told Florida police they had stolen in Maryland.

The three boys, held in Tampa, Fla., on two robbery charges, admitted stealing the jewelry from Springfield, Md., according to the Associated Press. Tampa police said they also confessed to robbing a Boy Scout Camp in Winchester, Va., and to breaking in places in Green Cove Spring, Fla.

Detective Sergt. A. B. Hitt recovered the jewelry yesterday in a studio couch of a southeast Washington home.

Steamer to House Class on Tour

Haddonfield, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP).—To avoid possible segregation of Negro classmates, the senior class at Haddonfield High School will spend two nights on a steamer instead of in a hotel when it makes its annual tour of the capital this year, Thomas M. Skirm, principal, announced today.

Skirm said the move was being made to eliminate any possibility of "Jim Crowism." He said that the graduating class last year protested against segregation of five of its members. This year's class also has five Negroes.

The trip is scheduled for May 12.

Late Rain Held Proof Of Truman's Good Luck

Hildreth Shudders At Close Call for Inaugural Events; Cleanup Started

The all-day rain and drizzle splattered on now desolate grandstands and reviewing stands, and reduced pedestrian traffic to a near-average rainy day minimum.

A hearty demand on taxicabs, an increase in private automobile traffic, and a bustling activity in downtown hotels where men and women primped for teas and parties were the principal outward signs that Washington was still at its inaugural holiday.

Government buildings were still closed for all practical purposes, with only skeleton forces at work, and schools in the District, Alexandria, Arlington and Prince Georges remained closed.

At the White House and Capitol, workmen began removing decorations, flagpoles, etc., from the reviewing and inaugural stands. Across the city, members of the Metropolitan Police Department were resuming their normal duties after their long Inaugural Day.

At Inaugural Committee headquarters in the Tariff Commission Building, Committee Chairman Melvin D. Hildreth was praising the "Truman good luck" that had sandwiched in a brilliant sunlit day between two inclement days.

Someone asked Hildreth what he would have done if the parade had been scheduled for yesterday. He glanced out his office window—and shuddered.

As for everything connected with the big day, "it was magnificent," he declared. Abounding with praise for the work of his staff, and the public turnout, he said, "I think that this inauguration gave evidence of the deep feeling of the American people for the pride and tradition of this democracy."

After the parade, said Hildreth, he met President Truman at the Inaugural Ball where the Chief Executive told him, "It was the best parade ever held in Washington—and Barkley will tell you the same thing."

Hildreth said auditors are now at work to establish the financial outcome of the Inauguration Day receipts and expenses. He said this will take about 10 days, "and all details will be made public."

A primary concern to the committee is the payment of Federal taxes on tickets for the parade, inaugural Gala and Inaugural Ball. Congress has refused to authorize a tax exemption—and no tax was collected when the tickets were sold.

In addition, the Inaugural Committee is faced with paying taxes on "free" tickets distributed to Governors and other dignitaries. "We're hoping we can work out something equitable on these free tickets with the Bureau of Internal Revenue," said Hildreth.

"It seems very unfair that after

Presidential Flag Stolen From Box at Armory

Someone stole the Presidential Flag off the Chief Executive's box at the National Guard Armory on Thursday night.

The hand-made flag, 8 feet by 10 feet and valued at several hundred dollars, was one borrowed from the White House to hang on the President's box during the Inaugural Gala and the Inaugural Ball.

It displays the Presidential Seal, in color, circled by 48 stars on a dark blue background. A decorator who arrived at the Armory yesterday morning, discovered it was missing, and the Inaugural Committee said it immediately notified police. The President's personal flag, a smaller one, is at the White House.

Area News in Brief

2 Hotel Inaugural Fetes Jam Traffic

A major traffic snarl developed last night as a result of Inaugural parties in the Wardman Park and Shoreham Hotels.

President Truman managed to reach the functions, but hundreds of others were caught in a jam that tied up traffic on both the Calvert st. and Connecticut ave. bridges. Limousines and taxicabs were backed up as far as two blocks.

The President, the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman first went to the reception given in their honor by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, Mrs. Snyder and their daughter, Miss Drucie Snyder.

Next the First Family went to a reception given by Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The Snyder party was held at the Wardman Park, and the McGrath reception at the Shoreham.

Also contributing to the traffic snarl was the installation of officers of Almas Temple Shriners at the Shoreham, attended by nearly 1000 shriners and their guests.

Bandleader Benny Goodman, who appeared at President Truman's Inaugural Ball against "strong advice" of his physician, was forced to leave his orchestra and return to his hotel at about 1:25 a. m. yesterday.

Goodman had fainted on his way to rehearsal in New York on Wednesday, suffering from an acute sinus complication. He made two 20-minute appearances with his band before his physician was called backstage. After Goodman left, Lionel Hampton, a former member of the band, took over the directorship.

A clerk at the Carlton Hotel, where Goodman was staying, said he checked out yesterday morning.

John Fainter Dies; Retired County Head

John Joseph Fainter, 82, one-time Hyattsville Mayor, retired justice of the peace, and for more than half a century a leading figure in Prince Georges County firefighting activities, died Thursday night at his home, 5107 42d ave., Hyattsville.

Mr. Fainter

His death, after a long illness, capped a career of public service, both voluntary and as a paid official, that began when he moved from the District, where he was born, to Hyattsville in 1896.

From 1902 to 1916 he was a member of the Hyattsville Town Council as representative of the First Ward, and in 1910 served as mayor. He was, at the same time, chief of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department, a post he held from 1906 to 1916.

Mr. Fainter became justice of the peace for the Hyattsville area in 1921, and retired in 1947. His wife, Mrs. Rosanna Mary Fainter, succeeded him and continued to occupy the position.

A member of the Hyattsville department more than 50 years, he was also instrumental in the organization of other fire companies in the county.

In 1921 he organized the county Volunteer Firemen's Association and was elected its first president. He was reelected the following year. He became president of the Maryland State Firemens Association for one term in 1946.

At the time of his death, he was serving his twenty-sixth year as treasurer of the Hyattsville Fire Department. "He was a legend to the firemen," a member of the department said yesterday.

Mr. Fainter was educated at parochial schools in the District and at Gonzaga College. He was a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, Knights of Columbus, and the Holy Name Society of St. Jerome's Catholic Church, Hyattsville.

Besides his wife, he is survived by six children. They are Mrs. Martha Moors, Washington; Col. Francis F. Fainter, USA, Charleston, W. Va.; John Wells Fainter, Austin, Tex.; Mrs. Carolyn Lineburg, Vienna, Va.; Mrs. Margaret Louise Atkinson, Drexel Hill, Pa., and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Pasnick of the Hyattsville address. A brother, Thomas Fainter of Washington, and six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Requiem mass will be said Monday morning at St. Jerome's Church in Hyattsville, with burial at Fort Lincoln Cemetery in a plot given Mr. Fainter by the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemens Association.

Mr. Fleharty, who moved to New Port Richey, Fla., after his retirement three years ago, was an attorney in the Trials Section of the Justice Department's Lands Division for 18 years.

Among the litigation he handled, was a case involving Government recovery of fire damage costs which has been cited "hundreds of times," since then a Justice Department associate said.

British Scandal Figure Dies In Obscurity

London, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—The Right Hon. James Henry Thomas, who rose from an engine wiper to an intimate of King George VI and then crashed in one of the biggest political scandals of the century, died in obscurity at his London home tonight.

In 1910 Thomas formed the first Labor Party unit at Swindon and was elected to Parliament. He also was elected president of his union. He created the National Union of Railwaymen, which became one of the most powerful in the world.

In 1921 he visited the President of the United States in the White House.

When the national Labor government was formed he served successively as Secretary of State for Colonies in 1929; Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, 1929-30; Secretary of State for the Dominions, 1930-35, and Secretary of State for Colonies again in 1935.

Morse Assails 'Backdown' on Bid to Penland

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) protested yesterday that the Inaugural Committee "backed down" on an invitation to Theodore A. Penland, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, to come to the inauguration.

Morse, in a statement, said the action was "regrettable." He said Penland was to have ridden at the head of the veterans' section in the inaugural parade. Penland lives in Portland, Ore.

Harlan Wood, chairman of the inaugural committee on veterans, agreed with Senator Morse that the withdrawal of the invitation was "regrettable."

"I think I regret it more than anyone else," said Wood. Nothing has hurt me more in 25 years than to suffer the feelings I have had to suffer in the last three or four days because the invitations were withdrawn."

He said there was an invitation to Penland and another to J. W. Moore of Selma, Ala., commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

He said he did not make the decision to cancel the invitation. He said the decision came from "authority higher than mine," but he would not identify the authority.

He said the arrangements for the two visitors were canceled in the interest of their own health, and in the fear that the trip and excitement would be dangerous for them. Wood said it was not a matter of finances. He said he did not agree with the decision to cancel the invitations.

the expenses of erecting stands and seating these people for such an event, we have to pay taxes on complimentary tickets."

Public thanks to residents who offered housing to out-of-town visitors yesterday was extended by Mrs. Ernest K. Lindley, chairman of the Hospitality and Housing Committee of the Inaugural Committee.

Some 20,000 of these rooms were not required because the demand failed by far to meet expectations.

The committee announced that, "with no money to calculate the influx of out-of-town people in advance of Inaugural Week, the Housing Bureau, with the full cooperation of press and radio, compiled listings of accomodations for approximately 23,000 people to avoid a potential housing shortage.

"Many of these rooms," said Mrs. Lindley, "were not used, because most visitors came to Washington for Inauguration Day only, and did not stay overnight. However, we were prepared, and that is a tribute to the hospitality of the citizens of metropolitan Washington. There was no housing shortage."

130,000 Pass Through Station

Bernard R. Tolson, manager of the Washington Terminal Co., operators of Union Station, announced yesterday that more than 130,000 persons arrived and departed at Union Station on Thursday.

But on an average weekday, said Tolson, "about 80,000 to 85,000" passengers pass through the station. Special trains are scheduled until Saturday night, though majority of those leaving the city by train departed Thursday night, he said.

In recognition of the outstanding service and extra hours worked by members of the Metropolitan Police Department, Superintendent Robert J. Barrett directed that commendations be placed in every policeman's record.

Read at rollcalls, it praised police for again demonstrating that they "compose the personnel of the finest police department in the world." Said Maj. Barrett, "My heartfelt thanks go out to you for a job well done."

Outside Police Get $90 Each

Chief of Detectives Robert S. Bryant paid off the 131 out-of-town detectives who came here to help handle the crowds. At the 1 p. m. lineup at Police Headquarters, they received praise for their good work and were paid $90 each plus transportation for the three days they spent here, and last night most of them were on their way home. They were allowed to keep as souvenirs the special inauguration badges which identified them on duty here.

To clean up the debris left in the wake of the parade, Sanitation Director William A. Xanten said his full street cleaning staff worked until 9 p. m. Thursday night, removing 96 truckloads of rubbish.

Xanten described the refuse as "a terriffic mess — greater than anything we had on previous inaugurations," and he added, "We received wonderful cooperation from the police."

Because Thursday was a holiday for District workmen, he said the parade cleanup bill would be $6000—conservatively," as a result of the holiday and overtime pay. Yesterday, the street cleaning staff worked only to 11 a. m.

Full-scale work to take down the inaugural and specially constructed grandstand seats, photographic booths, etc., at the White House and Capitol is scheduled to begin Monday, according to the construction firm that erected them, Skinker & Garrett, 1719 I st. nw.

All but 15 to 20 per cent of the new pine and fir lumber used—850,000 board feet—will be salvageable, said Cleveland Skinker, and will go to the Ace Wrecking Co. for construction use. Because of the added seasoning, he said, "The lumber is better than when we put it up."

He said the construction around the White House and Lafayette Park, which took four weeks to put up, will be down by about February 20, and the stands near the Capitol, put up by a smaller crew over a 2½-month period, will be down about February 13.

Cabinet Members Outline 'Fair Deal' Aims

Truman Surprises Women Democrats By Appearing at Rally to Accept Gift

By Genevieve Reynolds

"Thank you for presenting me to myself," quipped President Truman yesterday upon receiving a bronze bust of himself done by sculptor Felix de Weldon at the close of the women's inaugural rally sponsored by the Women's Division, Democratic National Committee. Planned as a feminine gathering, men outnumbered the women among the 400 guests at the Interdepartmental Auditorium.

The Chief Executive continued in his acceptance speech: 'Nobody sees more than one side of himself . . . that's when he looks in the mirror—and he's not sure the mirror is telling the truth."

Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman, Democratic National Committee, presenting the new bust of the President, told him that it was made for him and his family and was not to be considered White House property.

The President remarked smilingly that anyone would have a hard time getting the bust away from his family.

Told He Couldn't Make It

When Mrs. India Edwards, director, Women's Division, Democratic National Committee, told Senator McGrath that she hoped to persuade the President to attend the rally where Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, United States Attorney General Tom Clark, Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, and Arthur J. Altmeyer, Commissioner of Social Security of the Federal Security Agency, would be principal speakers, the Democratic Committee head told her that the President wouldn't be able to make it because of staying at the inaugural dance until 3 a. m.

Upon presenting Mrs. Truman, Miss Margaret Truman, his sister Miss Mary Jane Truman, and Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, who accompanied him to the rally, President Truman recalled Vice President Alben Barkley's comment upon meeting all the Wallace in-laws at the inaugural ceremony Thursday. The Wallaces are the First Lady's brothers.

Vice President Barkley jokingly remarked to the President: "With all these Wallaces it's surprising Henry Wallace didn't get a few more votes."

Outlines Social Program

Social Security Commissioner Altmeyer, who substituted for Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing, outlined the President's social security program, including Federal aid to education, disability insurance, lowering of retirement age for women from 65 to 60, upping of income to at least $40 a month before being cut off from Social Security benefits.

Altmeyer said that the problem of education is "alarming." "Some four to six million children are out of school in the United States due to lack of school facilities," he explained.

Asserting that only the most hardened reactionary could oppose the President's "National health insurance plan," Altmeyer pointed out that only 20 per cent of the population could afford adequate medical care and that the Public Health Services are "woefully understaffed." He said that the President's plan, which calls for complete medical care for everyone, "envisages no change in our present system other than that of paying for medical services.

"There will be no regimenting of the medical profession. Every patient will be free to choose his own doctor and every doctor will be free to choose his own patients," promised Altmeyer.

New Diplomacy

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, who heads the Voice of America program, told the audience that a new type of diplomacy has been put into effect—that of appealing directly to people instead of the old method of always going to the head of a foreign government. Woodrow Wilson's speech of January 8, 1918 containing the famous 14 points was one of the rare occasions when this government appealed to the people of the nation over the heads of their respective governments.

"His speech was essentially a propaganda move, asking the German government to make peace on the terms offered, but it was a direct appeal to the German people to do so themselves if their government refused," explained Secretary Allen.

The Assistant Secretary said that the American Government did not originate the practice of appealing directly to foreign peoples—that it was originated by Nazi Germany, but that we had adopted it in self defense. "I do not regard the development as disadvantageous to us," he explained," I believe we can play the game as well as the next man, and much better than any totalitarian government can ever play it."

The speaker said that in telling our story abroad, the United States is presented in its true colors. "People believe what we say for the very reason that we admit our imperfections," he averred. "We believe that only truth must be the basis of any successful propaganda effort.

"For example," he continued, "the Voice of America is telling the world about the magnificient campaign our President is conducting on benalf of civil rights in the United States."

Attorney General Tom Clark directed his remarks to the women of the country. "You must take an active part in our domestic affairs," he asserted. "You can't be neutral."

The Attorney General came to the rally from the White House, where he witnessed the swearing-in of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State.

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas expressed the belief that the Nation's housewives kept this country on the "Roosevelt line" by reelecting President Truman.

"Unless the Eighty-first Congress gets busy on the President's program immediately," she advised, "I hope you will let the congressional members know that you are backing it."

The breadbasket is the yardstick of measure for the success or failure of an economic program. It's what a person gets for her money in the breadbasket that counts—not the salary, according to Mrs. Douglas.

"Test of this Congress will be whether the legislation passed is for the benefit of all people or a few," she declared.

Mrs. India Edwards, director, Women's Division, Democratic National Committee, presided. She said that it was the women's intelligent work that had enabled the Democratic Party to be victorious in the elections.

In the receiving line will be Senator and Mrs. Chan Gurney, Senator and Mrs. Karl E. Mundt, Representative and Mrs. Francis Case, Representative and Mrs. Harold O. Lovre, Lieut. Col. George B. Home Staters Meet at Receptions

By Nicha Soure

The Inauguration is over, but the State society celebrations aren't. Two far-away States, Nevada and North Dakota, held their receptions yesterday evening, and despite the rain, the home-Staters turned out.

In a suite at the Wardman Park Hotel, North Dakota had an informal get-together. The cocktail party and reception hour were staggered from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m. in order that everyone would have a chance to come.

At the party was North Dakota's Senator William Langer and Mrs. Langer and the Senator's guests, Representatives Edgar Jonas and Richard W. Hoffman from Illinois; Senator Milton I. Young and Representative Usher Burdick.

The Nevadans had a section of the Mayflower cocktail lounge all to themselves yesterday evening for an informal gathering. Among those who dropped in to say "hello" were Senator and Mrs. George W. Malone and Representative Walter Baring.

The Charm of Michigan

They say the third time is the charm and the charm was the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel for the Michigan State Society.

Not expecting so many Wolverines to turn out the day after inauguration for the State society buffet luncheon, they first reserved the Pan-American room in the Statler then the Congressional Room before settling in the Presidential.

The buffet luncheon was held in honor of the Governor of Michigan and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams who arrived on Wednesday for the inaugural activities.

Among the guests who came to pay homage to the Governor and his lady were Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Senator and Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Representative Earl C. Michener, Representative and Mrs. Gerald W. Ford, jr.; Representative George D. O'Brien, Representative and Mrs. John B. Bennett.

Also, Associate Justice Frank Murphy, the Assistant Secretary of Labor and Mrs. John W. Gibson, Commissioner of the Federal Housing Agency and Mrs. Raymond M. Foley.

Mrs. Wendell Lund was chairman of the party and George Reader, president of the Michigan State Society of Washington, was the host.

To Hear Sen. Taft

Senator Robert Taft will be the guest speaker when the Ohio State Society meets in the Continental Room of the Wardman Park Hotel on January 27.

Following the dinner, members of the Buckeye State will dance to the music of "The Ohioans." The Micromaniacs from Ohio State University will take care of the entertainment.

'Good Neighbors' Hosts On 'Hospitality Day

Four Latin-American countries dispensed hospitality with a capital "H" yesterday as their Good Neighborly contribution to the Inaugural Week festivities. Out-of-towners from Washington State to South Carolina dropped by either the Paraguayan, Mexican, Dominican or Panamanian embassies on invitations issued by the respective ambassadors and their wives from the countries—that is, all except Paraguay, whose representative is a bachelor.

Mingled with the visiting inaugural attenders was a sprinkling of West Point cadets, officials and local residents.

By far the largest fiesta was that given by the Dominican Ambassador and Senora de Thomen, when more than 500 persons called between 4 and 6 p. m.

Secretary of the Senate Leslie Biffle and Mrs. Biffle were among the early arrivals at the Dominican Embassy as were Montana's Representative and Mrs. Mike Mansfield; Mme. Elvina Rybar, Mr. and Mrs. James MacPhearson, Mrs. Nathan Herwitz, Mrs. Jane Petterson Phillips of New York City, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Steelman, Admiral and Mrs. Clark Howell Woodward, the former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and Mrs. Cummings, Dr. and Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Miss Anne Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark; Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John N. Greeley, Mrs. McCeney Werlich.

Then there were Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Schuster—he's the famous publisher of the Simon-Schuster firm—who came with the Barnet Novers; Mrs. Nathan Hurwitz.

Judge and Mrs. George Nielson brought with them several Tar Heel celebrities including the Mayor of Ashboro, N. C., Richmond Morris and Mrs. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Cranford and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lucas—all of Ashboro.

Swapping Travel Talk

The Dominican Republic's delegate to the U. N., Enrique Marchena and Senora de Marchena, who came down from New York City for the inaugural ceremonies, and Senorita Minerva Barnardino, also the Dominican's delegate to the U. N., were carrying on a lively conversation about Paris experiences.

Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin came in with five handsome West Point cadets—Frank Sheriff of Connecticut, Glenn Palmer of Virginia, Fred Reichard of Puerto Rico and Herb Marshburn of this city.

Mexico's new Ambassador and Senora de Colina gave the out-of-towners a real sample of their country's fashions and foods. All the embassy staff wives appeared in native costumes and the delectable buffet was lavish with empanadas, tortillas and enchiladas.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Alion of Columbia, S. C., chatted with Chess Donaldson of this city and group of Tennesseans.

An Unexpected Thrill

Some 40 out-towners who turned out to meet the Panamanian Ambassador and Senora de Vallarino received an extra thrill upon being introduced to that country's immediate former President Enrique Jimminez and Senora de Jimminez who were planning to enplane last night for their native home. Washingtonians remember well the Jimminezes from 1943 when he served as Panamanian Ambassador to the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Henderson were exchanging inaugural chit chat with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McGrath, Judge and Mrs. Michael Igoe, Maj. and Mrs. J. W. Joyner, George Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field, jr., Representative, and Mrs. John Bolling, Representative and Mrs. Andrew Biemiller.

Bilingual Conversation

Above the tinkle of glasses filled with either champagne or red sparkling burgundy could be heard conversations in Spanish and English among the some 50 inaugural visitors who braved wet slippery roads, traffic jam and continuous downpour to attend the Paraguayan Ambassador Dr. Don Juan Felix Morales' at home at the Embassy, 5500 16th st. nw.

The Minister Counselor of the Embassy and Senora de Acosta received with the Ambassador. Assisting was Miss Barbara Dewey, who wore a chic Ceil Chapman model of crisp grey taffeta.

Those who dropped in for a bit of good neighbor hospitality included Mr. and Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Ennis of Baltimore; Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez.

Thousands Attend Receptions

Truman, Barkley Star at Parties Given by Snyders and McGraths

By Marie McNair

PRESIDENT TRUMAN was the only one who could buck the traffic jams yesterday.

With Mrs. Truman and Margaret the Chief Executive made the two-block run from the Wardman Park to the Shoreham Hotel in a matter of seconds. It took most of the other guests a half hour.

Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder, and their daughter, Drucie, entertained almost 2000 guests at a reception for which cards read "5 o'clock in honor of the President, First Lady and their daughter." At 6:15 the line waiting to be admitted to the Continental room stretched the length of the lobby.

At 6:45 Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Party, and Mrs. McGrath, hosts at a reception at the Shoreham Hotel, welcomed their honor guests, President and Mrs. Truman, and Vice President Alben Barkley.

A taxidriver with Vice President Alben Barkley as a passenger yesterday afternoon in the block long line of cars headed toward Wardman Park and the Snyders' reception, had the answer to the situation.

After about 20 minutes the V.P. asked what all the trouble was about up the line.

"I don't know exactly," said the taxidriver, "but the President is either coming or going and I don't know which."

The famous Barkley wit came to the fore at Senator and Mrs. McGrath's party when, repeating the story he added, "it was the only time in my life I felt the need for Dewey, to 'unravel, untangle and unsnarl.'"

Trumans Still Smiling

PRESIDENT AND MRS. TRUMAN came through smiling all the way. In the softly lighted Continental Room at Wardman Park Hotel they stood with their old friends, Secretary and Mrs. Snyder, with Margaret and Drucie side by side at the end of the line.

The First Lady wore a black damask satin gown with periwinkle figure to give a changeable effect; a heart-shaped neckline, long full sleeves gathered into tight cuffs. A magnificent white orchid was pinned to her shoulder and her little hat which dipped down at the side was of deep cornflower blue flowers and tiny pink and white apple blossom clusters.

Mrs. Snyder was handsome in black heavy crepe, cut with plunging neckline and short cap sleeves. And she had fastened a spray of yellow orchids to her bodice.

Margaret wore a purple orchid in her hair, a royal blue faille taffeta with blue satin stripes and narrow black stripes forming a faint plaid design. Made with a high neckline and nipped-in waist, the gown had leg o'mutton elbow length sleeves. Drucie's frock combined black velvet with taffeta, the basque of velvet the full skirt of faille and with it she wore a velvet stole.

The Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne slipped away from their own Hospitality Day party at the embassy, for 10 minutes to greet President and Mrs. Truman and their hosts.

Secretary Acheson There

DEAN ACHESON attended his first party as the new Secretary of State, and with Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower, and James Forrestal, Secretary of Defense, formed a conversational group. Mrs. Acheson, Mrs. Forrestal and Mrs. Eisenhower were there, Mamie Eisenhower looking enchanting in a full skirted pale violet taffeta frock, a tiny scooped bonnet of the same material for a hat.

Mrs. Forrestal, almost covered with silver fox, wore a cloche of black velvet and two rows of enormous pearls; Mrs. Acheson wore a black frock under a mink coat and a black hat waving with ostrich.

Congress Out in Force

The Senate and the House turned out in force and I saw from the Missouri delegation, Senator and Mrs. Forrest Donnell and Representative and Mrs. Dewey Short. Senator Scott Lucas went "down the line" with Mrs. Lucas at his side; North Carolina's new Senator, J. Melville Broughton, and Mrs. Broughton in a black frock with pink trim studded with beads; Senator and Mrs. J. William Fulbright, Senator and Mrs. William Langer, Senator and Mrs. Tom Connally and on the outside waiting to get in Senator Claude Pepper, and Mrs. Pepper in a trim black velvet suit and pale ivory felt hat; the Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Wellington Koo, Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of the Justice.

The British Ambassador and Lady Franks were there and the Ambassador of Iran and Mme. Ala; the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Belt, Senator and Mrs. Harly Kilgore, and the Maryland and Virginia Governors, William Preston Lane and William M. Tuck. Leslie Biffle, the Secretary of the Senate, and Mrs. Biffle, whose attendance at Inaugural Week festivities has been 100 per cent, were there, and I met Mrs. John J. McClellan, wife of the Arkansas Senator, looking pretty in a black dressmaker suit and gleaming white satin hat.

Other Notables There

The Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall were in the picture, so were Gen. and Mrs. Omar Bradley, Senator and Mrs. Joseph O'Mahoney, Mrs. Eve Lehman and her son, Oren; the Compreller General and Mrs. Lindsey Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mosier, Dr. and Mrs. William A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henle, Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Smith from nearby Virginia.

The President told a story—on Speaker Sam Rayburn. For about 25 minutes, he said the Speaker was President of the United States, due to the delay in the swearing-in ceremonies on Inaugural Day. Mr. Rayburn, taking cognizance of the fact that technically he was head of the country, informed the President, "and if I could have found a Justice of the Peace, I'd be President yet."

In serious vein, the Chief Executive thanked his audience for their support during his campaign, told them that they had only just begun.

He referred to the principles incorporated in the Democratic platform, and added that those principles were contained in the four messages he has sent to Congress. "And that platform was not a scrap of paper," he added with that familiar tone which characterized his fighting campaign.

I discovered Gen. Gordon Young, Engineer Commissioner, and Mrs. Young, whom I'd seen earlier at Secretary and Mrs. Snyder's party, in the throng, and the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney sipping cocktails with the Assistant Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Gordon Gray.

Big Jim Farley was in the throng, and even bigger Paul McNutt, who with Mrs. McNutt, was here for Inauguration Day. Others there were the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Julius Krug, Mr. and Mrs. George McGhee, Mrs. Frederick Witt, Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Boas, Miss May Fairchild and her brother, Sherman, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Harrington and their daughter, Jane, from St. Paul, Minn., and Edward K. Delaney of St. Paul, the youngest Mayor in the United States.

By Arthur Ellis—The Washington Post

EVERYBODY laughed with Harry, at yesterday's giant reception given by Senator and Mrs. J. Howard McGrath at the Shoreham Hotel. Thousands of Democratic bigwigs from all over the country jammed the West Ballroom for the event, and gave their chief a rousing ovation at the conclusion of his brief, impromptu speech. Embassies Entertain on Hospitality Day

Diplomatic Set Joins Capital's Inaugural Gayety

By Elizabeth Maguire

A GALA round of embassy cocktail parties yesterday added an international flavor to the Inauguration. The Norwegians, the British, the Iraqi and the Bolivians held open house, and parties were given at the Turkish and Indian embassies.

After a long drive through heavy traffic and dreary rain, the drawing room of the Indian Embassy looked like sunshine. Pink azalea plants blended well with rose upholstery and light colored rugs. The handsome Ambassadress, Lady Rama Rau, received in a sapphire blue sari, edged in gold, and her little grandson, Niki, stood not far from her side. Niki's mother, Mrs. Premla Wagle, was there, also dressed in blue, and her little daughter, Asha, 4, dressed in Scotch plaid.

Saying Farewell

The Indian Ambassador and his family have made a host of friends here who will be very sorry to see them leave Washington a month hence. Who the next Ambassador will be has not been announced.

Embassy staff members at the open house included the Military Attache and Mme. Chaudhuri, the First Secretary and Mrs. Chopra, and the First Secretary and Mrs. Unni Nayar. Someone said they had received a letter from Mme. Nehru, whose husband, the former Minister here, is now in charge of the legation at Stockholm.

Mme. Nehru writes she is living at the Grand Hotel in Stockholm, with the King's palace and a river at her front door, and that she greatly misses her Washington friends.

A guest at yesterday's party asked what India thought of Rita Hayworth. "Oh, she will add a great deal of glamour to India," said one. "He's a great guy," said another of Ali Khan. But a third insisted that India had never taken Ali Khan seriously, and that he was looked upon as a playboy.

A number of State Department people attended the Indian Embassy party, including Mr. and Mrs. William Sanger, Raymond Muir. And there were several out-of-town people, friends of the Ambassador and Lady Rama Rau.

At the Norwegian Embassy, the Ambassador and Mme. Morgenstierne tempted their guests with hot coffee and delicious little sandwiches and cakes. Yellow flowers were placed in the center of the buffet.

Coffee was poured by Mrs. Colbjornsen, wife of the financial counselor.

Leaving for Denmark

The Danish Ambassador and Mme. Kauffmann were there with Miss Lisa Kauffmann. Today Ambassador Kauffmann is leaving by plane for Denmark. His last flight across the ocean, he said, was his thirteenth. It was made on the thirteenth of December in section 13. None of this was taken into account until he had boarded the plane, but the trip proved uneventful.

Others at the Norwegian Embassy yesterday were Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock, Senator Alexander Wiley, Stanley Woodward and the Counselor of the Embassy and Mrs. Nygaard. Ambassador and Mme. Morgenstierne left their party a short while to shake hands with the President and Mrs. Truman at the Snyder cocktail party, and then they returned to the embassy to receive more friends.

Meanwhile, across the street at the Bolivian Embassy, the Ambassador and Senora de Martinez Vargas held open house. A welcoming fire was laid in the drawing room, and in the dining room a buffet supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Mills were there and Spencer King of the State Department. Embassy staff members attending included the Commercial Counselor and Senora de Rovira and the Military Attache and Senora de Sanchez.

Charming Setting

The spacious rooms of the Turkish Embassy for once did not hold 1000 people. It was a treat to get a glimpse of the rooms and their furnishings. One guest said she had been there several times, but it was the first chance she'd had to see the embassy.

Mme. Erkin received with the Ambassador at the head of the staircase. The popular hostess showed recent portraits of her niece, the former Selva Pattah, who was married at the embassy and sailed for Italy with her husband.

News From Orhan Erlap

Mme. Esenbel, wife of the First Secretary, was there talking with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, said shed heard that Orhan Eralp was now in Switzerland and attending a conference on Palestine, and that later he would be stationed in Palestine.

Among other guests at the Turkish Embassy were Col. and Mrs. C. Shiffeler, Mrs. Clark Williams of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Schuster, also of New York, and Mrs. Barnet Nover.

At the French Embassy, Mme. Bonnet received her guests dressed in a new Dior creation—black with skirt of flared tiers. Elsa Maxwell was there at the beginning of the reception, and toward 8, Les Compagnons de la Chanon started to arrive.

Texas Governor There

Mr. and Mrs. Andre Visson were in the gathering and Gov. Allan D. Shiver of Texas. Also, Gen. Omar Bradley, Mrs. Frazier Reams of Toledo, Ohio, and pretty Miss Martha Lee Reams and Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Mme. Hoyt Wiborg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey, Mrs. Roy Young of Boston, Miss Jane Young and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wyatt.

Embassy staff members and their wives included the Commercial Counselor and Mme. Dreux, the Counselor and Mme. Wapler, the First Secretary and Mme. Benard, and two embassy bachelors, Capt. Pierre Lancelot and Jean Daridan. The latter two are entertaining February 25 at a dance. Ladies are requested to wear hats in vogue of 1900.

An interesting group attended the party given at the Embassy of Iraq by the new Charge d'Affaires, Abdullah I. Bakr, and Mme. Bakr. The new United States Ambassador to Iraq, Edward Crocker, and Mrs. Crocker were among the guests.

Army Officers Fete Streits At AMC Club

MORE than 500 Army Medical Center officers and their wives attended a reception yesterday at the AMC Officers' Club honoring their new commanding officer, Brig. Gen. Paul H. Streit and Mrs. Streit. General Streit took over his new duties on January 15.

Miss Anne Leavell Daniel Is Feted at Shower

MISS Beatrice Coates entertained at a linen shower yesterday for Miss Anne Leavell Daniel whose marriage to Fletcher S. Cater of Dublin, Ga., will take place March 16.

Guests were the bride-elect's sister, Miss Margaret Daniel, who will be maid of honor; Miss Athlynn Williams and Mrs. Richard Starnes, who will be bridesmaids. Others were Miss Louisa Dawson, Miss Keating Karig, Mrs. James Higgason Mrs. Henry Seaman, Miss Betty Farley, Mrs. John Beebe, Miss Peggy Jean Welles, Miss Margaret Tompkins, Mrs. James Willis, sister of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. John Moncure Daniel, mother of the honor guest.

Taylors Entertain For Idaho Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Swope were in the company. Mrs. Swope is Democratic State vice chairman of Idaho, and others were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Evans of Boise, house guests of Senator and Mrs. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Armstrong, here for the inauguration.

General Tells UDC:

Huge U. S. Commitments Force Army to Use Trainees

Military demands created by the rise of the United States to world leadership are so great that partially trained troops must be used in some of the jobs, according to Lieut. Gen. Raymond Stallings McLain, chief of information of the Army.

Formerly, we relied on England and France to absorb the initial shock of hostilities, General McLain told members of the Gen. Lewis A. Armistead Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

Now we have to deploy troops abroad in occupation work and in this country to protect us in case of an emergency, besides 50,000 or 60,000 men who are hospitalized or en route from one assignment to another.

More Than We Can Afford

With vital maintenance of air bases abroad, this "adds up to more troops than we can afford unless we use partially trained men," General McLain said, estimating that men who are 60 or 70 per cent trained can be used successfully in many jobs.

However, he considers men trained in National Guard units where they have about 600 hours training are only 20 per cent prepared. This training, coupled with six months or a year of regular training, might be adequate, according to the general.

"Old timers say they don't see why so much training is needed now because they were trained for the Spanish-American War or the First World War in less time," General McLain continued, but they should realize that we have many more weapons today.

"We can rely on civilian performance if we can bring it up to the proper level of training," he said in summary.

General McLain, who directs Army's public information and troop information and education, also pointed out that the Army conducts the largest correspondence school in the world as part of its program to make soldiers "stable citizens of the United States—not another breed of cat."

Biggest Mail School

Several hundred thousand soldiers are enrolled at one time, ranging from men who are barely illiterate, to boys who have just one subject to finish in order to be ready for college training.

The general also declared that the United States Army is the most democratic army in the world, and said that any man can rise as fast as his intelligence and initiative will take him. The so-called—and often denounced—caste system is necessary to the Army, he feels, to the extent that stratas of authority help prevent favoritism which might occur if officers grew to be close personal friends of their enlisted men.

Invited to the luncheon which was arranged at the Women's National Democratic Club by Mrs. Harry Rascoe Fulton, president of the chapter, and Mrs. Caleb Carson Motz, who organized the chapter four years ago, were a number of representatives of other patriotic women's groups.

Inaugural Visitors

Gov. Thomas Mabry of New Mexico; Mrs. Nolan Walker, Democratic committeewoman from that State; Postmaster John Haderlein of Chicago and Mrs. Haderlein were inaugural guests at the Willard Hotel.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

Those people fortunate enough to have fireplaces in their homes can add to the pleasure of sitting before the fire by bringing a little color to the flames. One can buy commercially prepared material, of course, but it is more fun to mix one's own color-producing magic.

The base for the various colors is made by mixing shellac with sawdust. A sufficient amount of the chemical is added and mixed thoroughly. You may want to experiment a bit to find out the amount that best develops the color.

Chemicals can be obtained from your druggist or if he does not have them on hand, you can ask him to get them for you from a chemical supply house. Two colors—yellow and green—can be made from common household materials, salt and borax, respectively. Other colors come from inexpensive chemicals such as:

Potassium chlorate: a violet colored flame.
Copper nitrate: an emerald flame.
Calcium chloride: an orange flame.
Barium nitrate: an apple green flame.

How to Prepare Turnips

Two pounds of turnips will make five or six servings; to prepare them, cut off roots and tops, pare thinly and then cut into cubes. Cook them quickly in a small amount of boiling salted water.

Good-Tasting Dessert

Meat Cups for Potatoes

Broil slices of bologna and they will form cups that may be filled with creamed potatoes; sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

A CORRECTION

About Cleaning Electric Stove

Are there any chemicals or anything that will remove the brown burnt-on color surrounding the electric jets (or heating devices) on a white enamel electric stove that abrasives will not budge? A. B. M.

Modern electric stoves are made so that the pans under the burners and the frames around them can be removed. The entire burner should lift up so that this frame can be slipped out. You can then put an ammonia soaked cloth over the brown deposit on the frame and leave it on overnight to soften it. Or you can soak the frame and pan in a solution of hot water to which a handful of washing soda has been added. When the deposit is softened, scrape most of it through the careful use of a dull knife and scour with steel wool. You may not be able to remove it completely the first time, but repeated treatments should eventually get it bright and shining again.

I have an expensive net evening gown which I would like to preserve from moths (several of my gowns have been previously ruined by moth holes) without having to lay it away in moth balls or garment bags, which would crush it. Is there any way that this can be done and still not have the odor noticeable? Also, I have been advised not to have the garment cleaned as the cleaners take the stiffening out of net. Can you recommend a cleaner who specializes in this type of cleaning? F. P.

You might use an extra large garment bag and place only this dress in it. Or, if a small closet is available for the purpose, you could hang the dress there, spread a pound or two of naphthalene flakes around the floor and on the closet shelf, then seal up the closet by covering all cracks (around the door, etc.) with strips of gummed paper. The naphthalene flakes will not only prevent moths but silverfish as well, which is important since silverfish are fond of rayons and the sizing in fabrics. Any odor which clings to the dress should be readily dispersed by airing the dress a day or two before each use.

As for having it cleaned, I would suggest you select a firm which specializes in work on delicate fabrics. When they see the dress, they will be able to tell you what the chances are of its coming through the process in its present condition.

I would like to send clothing to Palestine. Could you tell me where to call and also if they pick it up? A. R.

Clothing is not now being collected for Palestine, although food and medical equipment are being sent. The Jewish Social Service Agency, located at 1131 Spring rd. nw., has use for good used clothes for distribution to needy persons in the Washington area. Then too, the collection of used clothing for displaced persons in Europe may be started again soon, at which time the Jewish Social Service Agency will be the collecting agent. I would, therefore, suggest that you call this agency at Tuckerman 1035 and receive suggestions from a worker there as to the disposition of the clothing you wish to give.

Will you reprint the telephone number of the concern which buys or resells good second-hand clothing?

There are several shops in this area which sell good used clothing on a commission basis. One can be reached by telephoning Alexandria 0649 and another at Columbia 0005.

I noticed a question in your column the other day about where to get butter flavoring and am gladly forwarding to you the address of a butter flavoring producer as given in the Christian Science Monitor. We have found this flavoring a great joy and welcome your fine department as a right channel for passing the address on to others. It can be ordered from S. M. Food Products Co., 7565 Melrose ave., Los Angeles, Calif. A. M.

After I had an old oval mirror, 16 by 28, resilvered I learned oval frames come a standard oval and, of course, an old oval won't fit today's standard frames. What do you suggest? A. A. R.

In times past, mirror frames were fitted to the mirror, but now the practice is to fit the mirror to the frame. A firm which specializes in frames advises that the standard size nearest to your mirror would probably be 16 by 20. I would suggest you call this firm at Republic 3819 and discuss the problem. If you decide to have the mirror cut down, the frame firm will put you in touch with a glass firm to do the cutting for you. The only other suggestion would be to have a frame made to order, but this would be expensive. The nearest firm, which I have been able to find doing this work, is located in Chicago.

Do you have a recipe for macaroon cup cakes? M.E.S.

New Machine Tests Hearing Exactly

Volunteers Sought for Heart Drive

Volunteers to help in a fund-raising campaign to combat heart diseases will be recruited today and Sunday, according to an announcement by Commissioner John Russell Young.

The two-day "cardiac crusade" enlistment period, according to Young, "is to recruit hundreds of volunteers who will go to their fellow citizens during the period from February 7 to 28 to enlist aid and financial support in the fight against diseases of the heart and circulation."

Joining in the appeal of Young to battle "the No. 1 killer throughout the Nation," John H. Wilkins, Jr., and William E. Leahy, general cochairmen of the drive, stressed the need for volunteers to help raise a minimum goal of $75,000.

The campaign is the first public appeal of the Washington Heart Association. Funds derived will be used for a program of scientific research, education and community services for heart patients.

According to the cochairmen, more than 3,700,000 Americans are suffering from some form of heart disease, while a like number are handicapped by hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure.

One person out of every 20 suffers from disease of the heart or blood vessels and one death out of every three is due to some form of heart trouble, it was said.

Dr. Frank S. Horvath is president of the Washington Heart Association, organized about 20 years ago. Community Chest funds granted it yearly have proved insufficient for essential work or expansion, officials say.

A new machine to scientifically test a person's hearing, either with or without his cooperation, was described here last night for the Washington Hearing Society.

Called a "psychogalvanometer," the instrument has been under experimental tests for nearly a year at Johns Hopkins Hospital, according to Dr. William G. Hardy, director of the hospital's Hearing and Speech Center.

Dr. Hardy described the machine and its uses to a parents' study group of the Washington Hearing Society, at a monthly meeting last night at the society's headquarters, 2431 14th st. nw.

It has been found to be of particular value, he said, as a diagnostic tool to test the hearing of infants, malingerers, fake claimants of hearing loss from accidents, and psychopathic cases.

And since it operates on responses of the sympathetic nervous system instead of the subject's desire or ability to cooperate it is the "only real objective hearing test in existence," he said.

It can be used to determine for parents worried over their apparently listless child whether that child is mentally deficient or whether his unresponsiveness is caused by deafness. And, similarly, it provides the diagnostic test for all ages in finding out whether deafness or apparent deafness is organic or psychogenic, Dr. Hardy said.

Such a machine, he said, would have been "particularly valuable" in the past World War to detect malingerers who faked loss of hearing, and to test combat casualties for actual hearing injury as against apparent hearing loss induced by shock and hysteria.

The psychogalvanometer was devised about a year ago by Dr. Curt P. Richter, associate professor of psychobiology at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, Dr. Hardy said. Since then it has been undergoing extensive tests at the hearing center.

As Dr. Hardy explained it:

The psychogalvanometer tests the subject by setting up a "conditioned reflex" by alternate stimulus to the sympathetic nervous system with slight electric shock and measured sound. This is done by using a standard audiometer, which produces sound of measured intensity, and another instrument which gives the subject slight electric shocks.

The sound, when heard, sets up an electromotive impulse in the body's sympathetic nervous system (involuntary) which can be picked up by a sensitive measuring machine.

No matter what the patient does, said Dr. Hardy, the test machine is not influenced except by the involuntary reactions of the patient's own sympathetic nervous system.

The parents study group who heard Dr. Hardy's talk comprises parents of deaf and hard-of-hearing children being helped by the Washington Hearing Society, a Red Feather agency.

The new machine, Dr. Hardy explained, will be tested for perhaps another four months before its developers will be prepared to put it in clinical operation.

Capital Airlines Offers City Sightseeing Trips

A schedule of weekend sightseeing flights over the Capital was announced yesterday by Capital Airlines, which said the half-hour air trips would begin next weekend, if weather conditions are good.

Flights in 50-passenger DC-4s will take off at 2 and 4 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays, with hostesses aboard to answer all questions. Cost of the flights will be $2.50, with no reduction for children.

American Priest Gets Soviet Exit Visa

Moscow, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Father Antonio Laberge of Pawtucket, R. I., the only American priest in Moscow, today received a Soviet exit visa and permission to return to Russia within two months.

Laberge, who is Apostolic Delegate to Moscow, will leave for the United States for a vacation and probable consultations. It is the second time within a year that he has been permitted to leave Russia and return.

Rheumatic Disease Research Need Placed at $6,100,000

An effectively planned war against crippling rheumatic diseases will cost $6,100,000 for research alone, it was announced last night by a special survey committee of the National Research Council.

That sum, the committee report estimated, would cover the research and training necessary for a five-year program against the diseases that now affect some 7,500,000 Americans.

The report was prepared for the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Inc., of New York, by the NRC survey team after months of investigation. Heading the special committee is Dr. Walter Bauer of Harvard Medical School.

Besides studying present research facilities and treatments used in arthritis and allied diseases, the committee also made efforts to determine what direction research should take.

All the rheumatic diseases have one thing in common, the report pointed out. The portions of the body that they attack—bone, cartilage, muscle and connective tissue—all develop from what is called "embryonic mesenchymal tissue."

"It is essential," the report stated, "that information regarding this significant tissue be increased as rapidly as possible to afford basic data needed for elucidation of the over-all problem."

Two other broad fields of research that the committee said should be developed are the specific clinical and physiological problems, and the social, environmental and other public health factors bearing on the diseases.

Also recommended were special research projects with sex hormones and other ductless gland products to determine their relation to rheumatic diseases.

Other phases needing research, the committee said, include: Relation of germ and virus infection to disease onset; studies of the blood and circulatory system, particularly regarding aging and other degenerative changes, and investigations into hereditary and emotional factors a causative agents in arthritis.

Currently, the National Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is trying to raise two million dollars for its first-year program.

Freedom Train Open Today For Final Show of Long Run

The Freedom Train, which has traveled more than 37,000 miles during its 16-month lifetime, will bring its country-wide tour to a close today in Washington.

Situated on the tracks behind the Bureau of Engraving, 14th and D sts. sw., the train will be open from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. today

At 11 a m the Marine Corps Band will participate in brief ceremonies at the train, honoring the 27-man Marine Corps detachment that has guarded the train's invaluable cargo of 127 historic American documents

The train will be disbanded, its officials say, though the American Heritage Foundation, nonprofit sponsor of the train, still nourishes hopes that Congress will create a permanent commission to operate the train.

On Monday morning, the National Archives will send armored trucks to remove the precious documents. The train itself will then proceed to yards in Wilmington, Del.

A certificate of merit for promoting good citizenship was presented yesterday to E. Edward Shu-grue, national director of the American Heritage Foundation, by Carroll E. Bird, Touchdown Club president, in ceremonies at the train.

At 9:30 a. m. today the Veterans of Foreign Wars will present a similar award to Frank Crane, another foundation official.

French 'Merci' Train Due in New York Feb. 2

The French "Merci" Train, sent in gratitude for America's Friendship Train, which dispensed food last winter through France, will arrive in New York by boat on February 2.

The 49-car train will carry such permanent gifts as porcelain vases, medals from the French mint, and the flags flown from the Eiffel Tower when Paris was liberated during World War II. These will be distributed to museums, schools and libraries throughout the country.

Washington's car, which it will share with the Territory of Hawaii, arrives here February 5. Welcoming ceremonies are scheduled tentatively for the follwing day.

Policeman Takes Truman-Barkley Clubs Position

Paul C. Perry, former New York State Young Democratic leader, has resigned as a Metropolitan Police private to become assistant to the chairman of the National Truman-Barkley Clubs.

Perry

Perry, who lives with his wife and six children at 1138 South Thomas st., Arlington, Va., will work with Judge Wilburn Mayock, national treasurer, in the club offices at the Mayflower Hotel. Gov. Roy Turner of Oklahoma is chairman of the National Truman-Barkley Clubs.

Perry was a policeman here from October 1, 1945, until last Monday. He served 2½ years in the Marine Corps, mostly as a military policeman, prior to his discharge in February, 1945. He formerly was a rehabilitation officer in the New York State Department of Corrections. A native of Buffalo, he was once vice president of the Young Democrats of Erie County, N. Y., and in 1945 served as field director in five Southern States for the national clothing collection for UNRRA.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

What Has Happened to Modern Manners?

Office workers in the Warner Building are still talking about the display of selfishness and bad manners they witnessed on Inaugural Day.

They watched the parade from their office windows, which also overlook the parking lot across the street.

The weight of an adult is enough to cave in the steel top of a modern automobile, and cause a big dent. Pressure from the inside will usually spring the top back into shape, but sometimes "wrinkles" remain, to bear mute testimony to the incident.

Fenders and hoods are even more vulnerable. Even a child is heavy enough to cause an auto hood to sag—and hoods don't spring back into shape again.

They remain dented, and sometimes loose and ill-fitting thereafter. And you can imagine how many scratches would remain in a fender after somebody had stood on it for three hours.

Yet these casual passersby for some reason felt they had a right to walk all over automobiles which were parked on private property. And the folks who were watching from the Warner Building can't help but wonder what's happened to our manners in these modern times.

IN WHICH WE STRAIGHTEN OUT A DACHSHUND'S NOSE

Several days ago Cartoonist Irwin depicted three sidewalk superintendents peering through holes in a board fence. From C. G. R. of 407 Battery lane, Bethesda, Md., comes this complaint:

"Will you please tell the guy who drew the picture that he should know better than to give the smallest creature of the three a nose that is saucy, tip-tilted and with such an upsweep.

"No self-respecting dachshund would be seen with anything but a tapering, very straight, aristocratic nose—like mine."

MISCELLANY

Mrs. W. T. White, sr., of 4901 Hollywood rd., Berwyn, Md., tells me her family attended the inaugural parade the easy way; they went up to New York and watched it on television . . . Luckiest newspaper staffs in town were at The Washington Post and our afternoon contemporary down the street—both with ringside (window) seats for the parade . . . WTOP staffers fared best of all the radio folks . . . Speaking of radio, Oklahoma's new Senator, Robert S. Kerr, was one of several congressional freshmen on a recent CBS broadcast. He was slated for a 2-minute talk, and network producers almost fainted from the shock when his speech timed out to exactly two minutes, right on the button. (Their experience has taught them that Congressmen have no sense of time on such occasions). The explanation I get is that Senator Kerr rehearsed beforehand, with a stopwatch—just like a pro . . . That boy has been around microphones before . . . Edna V. Culbreth of 1815 17th st. nw. sends me a Chicago Tribune clipping which begins: "There has been recent discussion in the Washington, D. C., newspapers about the secretarial practice of asking telephone callers 'Who's calling, please'" . . . Tawny is back sniffing the flowers of the Swiss Legation garden again, after having gotten into slightly less trouble than his prototype, Ferdinand the Bull . . . Joyce Wilkerson of 425 17th st. se. notes that this paper recently covered an airplane race by including the line: "His average speed was 176.867 miles per hour" . . . Doggone it, Joyce, we keep clipping the tails of those periods but they keep growing back into commas again.

PERSONAL NOTES

Lou Huff, Arlington, Va.: Merchants are just as distressed by such clerical discourtesy as we are; the war boom is over, and a customer with dough to spend is a welcome sight again.

Deanne Dyke, 4519 New Hampshire ave. nw.: I knew Deanne was a girl's name; the one that always confuses me is Frances and Francis.

MAYBE I WEAR AN INVISIBLE CLOAK, EH?

The current issue of the Yellow Cab "Yellowgram" contains a note about this column.

It observes that the District Line used to carry frequent "human interest stories about cab drivers. But nowadays he writes about motormen and bus drivers. Can it be that he's saving on transportation costs, even though he's taken on an extra job on the radio? Or does he have to pay WINX for those broadcasts?"

Now that you ask, fellows, I'll tell you. In the first place, I'm no longer on WINX. I'm on WTOP.

In the second place, I haven't run across any good stories about cab drivers recently.

And in the third place, I am riding streetcars—because cab drivers can't see me.

Currently, I've been parking my car on the municipal lot behind the new Municipal Center. Then I walk to the curb (corner Constitution and Pennsylvania) and try to hail a cab to 13th and Pennsylvania nw.

During the morning rush hour, the cabs come by there by the hundreds. But I can't get any of them to stop.

So I find my stories on streetcars instead. And I've never encountered a motorman who objected to group riding.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY, BILL

Harry C. de Turk of 2808 Terrace rd. se., thinks it's worth mentioning that it was just a hundred years ago that people started rushing to California because gold had been discovered.

Yes, and darned if I'm not beginning to look my age.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Admiral Towers, explaining why a woman, a diplomat and a crab sometimes are alike: "Because when you think they're coming toward you, they're really going away."

Orson Welles, accepting the apology of an aide who said, "Let me be the first to admit you're right." "Oh, no, I'm always the first to admit I'm right."

Groucho Marx, in referring to Ira Gershwin's poker losses at the Hoyle Club: "Scientists can't discover why for 16 years he's been playing a game of pure chance and never once has been able to win."

S. Hurok, the ballet impresario, in being asked for the word denoting a ballet fan: "The word is 'balletomaine.' A balletomaine is one who wants new ballets and free tickets."

Jed Harris, when asked how he feels: "I know I'm getting older, because I've reached the stage where I'd rather see an old enemy than a new friend."

Sam H. Harris, in reminiscing about the days when he managed Terrible Terry McGovern: "No, I never bet against Terry. If I couldn't bet ON him, there was no fight."

Pietro Di Donato, in describing how his new book would differ from his "Christ in Concrete": "It's about my love of women and struggle with God—or, rather, my love of God and struggle with women."

Henri Bernstein, during a discussion of Marcel Proust and Anatole France: "Proust once told me 'Verbs make the writer, not adjectives. Anatole is brilliant with adjectives; but a great writer is one who knows how to use verbs.'"

Thornton Wilder, when asked if he was excited, after winning a Pulitzer Prize for the third time: "Forgive me for not being excited. I wasn't excited even the first time."

Sir Alexander Korda, urging the appointment of the 6 ft. 7 in. Robert E. Sherwood as Librarian of Congress: "Perfect casting. Bob could reach the books without having to use a ladder."

George White, preparing to hire chorus girls for his new revue: "I make 4,550 enemies each time I do a show. Five thousand girls show up for the chorus call, and I can hire only 50."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Bevin Scolds U. S. Ambassador

By Drew Pearson

While Washington and the Nation concentrated on making Harry Truman the thirty-second President of the United States, a lot of important things happened in the rest of the world just the same. Here are some of them:

Bevin scolds United States Ambassador—While President Truman was bawling out British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks, Foreign Minister Bevin was doing the same to United States Ambassador Lewis Douglas. Douglas called on Bevin with a protest against the movement of British troops around the Palestine-Egyptian border The Ambassador's call was on the direct instruction of the White House, but Foreign Minister Bevin told him Britain would move troops as it pleased regardless of advice from the United States.

Secret deal with Tito—At long last the American Embassy in Belgrade is closing a trade deal with Marshal Tito to wean him further away from the Iron Curtain. Tito, himself, suggested the deal shortly after Moscow announced it planned to cut Russian-Yugoslav trade by 90 per cent. Delighted with the Tito overture, the State Department authorized the American Embassy in Belgrade to proceed rapidly, and we will soon trade American copper, machinery and oil for Yugoslav copper, lead and zinc.

Boycotting the Latin dictators—Suddenly and secretly the State Department has canceled a United States Air Force flight to Peru. Reason: Peru is now under military dictatorship. The Air Force, however, its ear attuned to motors rather than political niceties and with one of its big former airmen, Gen. Haroid George, now running the Peruvian lines, was all set to send a good-will flight to Peru. Whereupon, Acting Secretary Lovett stepped in, threatened to take the matter to the White House unless the idea was dropped. It was dropped.

Hoover runs true to form—Herbert Hoover is handing out information about the same way as wen President of the United States.

The other day Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brennan wrote the former President, asking for a copy of the Hoover Commission's preliminary report on reorganizing the Agriculture Department.

Hoover replied that he was sorry, the information was secret.

What Hoover didn't know is that Agriculture dean, H. P. Rusk, of the University of Illinois, who headed the subcommittee studying the Agriculture Department, had already sent copies of the report to the heads of every agriculture college in the country. In other words about every agriculture expert has the report except the man who would have to make it work.

British monkey wrench—the British have thrown a monkey wrench into the North Atlantic pact. At a secret meeting with Undersecretary of State Lovett last week, British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks presented an official demand from London that Britain's African colonies and dominions be included in the new alliance against Russia. Lovett and the French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, were vigorously opposed. Bonnet was especially indignant, pointing out that this proved French fears that Britain is more interested in defending her African bases and colonies than the defense of the European continent.

Reds run Chinese army—The American Embassy in China has notified the State Department the Chinese Communist army is being commanded by several hundred of Russia's top army officers—including at least 10 generals.

The Russians are reported in constant touch with their Siberian headquarters and with Moscow. Russian radio technicians accompany them for this purpose.

No. 1 Russian leader is reported to be a Soviet general called Tasenko who helped direct the Red army advance against the Japanese in the closing days of the war. Last week he engineered the downfall of Tientsin.

Merry-Go-Round

W. Averell Harriman, the roving Marshall Plan Ambassador, decided at the last minute to attend the President's inaugural. He cabled from Paris, asking two tickets to everything. But the inaugural committee was already sold out . . . Reason for the bulging crowds at inaugural events: The inaugural committee gave out invitations, expecting 50 per cent to be turned down. Instead, everyone but a slim 2 per cent accepted . . . Under the fire laws, 5300 persons is all Washington's barnlike National Guard Armory is permitted to hold. Closer to 8000 people, however, jammed it for the inaugural concert and inaugural ball . . . The Senate is looking up these days. Most of the newcomers are basketball-player size. Over 6 feet tall are Senators Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, Paul Douglas of Illinois, Melville Broughton of North Carolina, Guy Gillette of Iowa and Lyndon Johnson of Texas . . . Attorney General Tom Clark is showing new members of Congress the ropes at the Justice Department. He invites them in, in groups, to meet his assistants and learn how the department operates . . . The powerful International Association of Machinists, which has shuttled in and out of the American Federation of Labor like John L. Lewis' mine union, soon will be back in the fold.
